HARRINGTON-LONG SUIT
GIVEN TO JURY TODAY

The case of John H. Harrington against Dennis A. Long, for alleged libel on 27 counts was given to the jury this morning in the superior court at Cambridge by Judge Chase who made his charge to the jury yesterday afternoon at the close of the session. The argument of Dennis J. Murphy for the defense was made early in the forenoon, and of J. Gilbert Hill, for the plaintiff immediately after the noon recess. The charge made by Judge Chase was a clear explanation of the law of libel, with special reference to its application in this case. Yesterday was the third day of the trial, but there was little testimony presented. Frederick Freeman was the only witness called by the defense. He testified that he has dealt with printing machinery for many years and that he recently visited The Sun, printing plant. He testified that he found seven linotype machines and was asked as to their market value but Mr. Hill objected, asking to be shown the qualifications of the witness before he permitted to testify as an expert. Questioned by Mr. Murphy, the witness said that he does a gross business of $10,000 yearly. He gave his estimates as to the value of different pieces now in operation in the plant. He said the press was worth about $15,000. Questioned by Mr. Hill: When did you make this examination? Three weeks ago. How long did you stay? About two hours. How much attention did you give to the press? About half an hour. And part of that time you talked with the foreman? Yes. How long were you in the composing room? About an hour. Did you make a particular study of each machine? No, I did not study any machine especially; I looked them all over and saw they were in good condition. What is the highest price you ever received for a printing press? $8,000. Would you give the prices you named for the various machines? I could not afford to. If I did, I

DER DOCTOR'S CARE

WAKEFIELD, Nov. 16.—Charged with trying to kill her husband by putting paris green in his soup, Mrs. Pasquale Gelsomini, aged 42, of 7 Orphan st., was arrested yesterday afternoon. She will appear in the Malden district court today. The husband, Giuseppe Gelsomini, is recovering from the effects of the poison and is able to talk.

Love for another man is ascribed by the police as the cause of the alleged attempt. For two days the police had been waiting for the husband to recuperate sufficiently to swear out a warrant for his wife's arrest. According to Gelsomini, his wife served soup for dinner Sunday. The soup tasted strangely, he said, and when he looked closely at it he saw green specks floating on it. He stopped eating immediately and called a physician, who administered first aid treatment. He has since been under the doctor's care.

Gelsomini also told the police his wife had made three other attempts to get rid of him. A week ago, he said, he awoke and smelled a strong odor of gas in his room. When he called his wife's attention to it she told him to shut up and go to sleep. Instead, he investigated and found a gas jet open, he said. He also alleges that his wife put

Those of us who have given the matter thought and study believe that your company should bear the cost of the construction of the canal bridge. I believe it to be my duty, therefore, to call your attention to the situation and to ask that you pay over an amount of money sufficient to reimburse the city of Lowell for its expenditure on this new canal bridge, which you will admit was a matter of public convenience and necessity. As to the amount that you should contribute, that may be ascertained by having your engineer confer with the city engineer and go over the cost.

VON MACKENSEN'S
ARMY IN RETREAT
IN DOBRUDJA

Field Marshal von Mackensen's army in the Rumanian province of Dobrudja is in retreat, the Petrograd war office announced today, burning villages as it falls back.

Increasing pressure by the Russo-Rumanian army in Dobrudja, which rallied after its severe defeat by von Mackensen last month, has been in evidence for several days. Bucharest reported a further advance yesterday, towards the important Tchernavoda-Constanza railroad, which the Teutonic allies captured in their drive. Berlin today entered a denial of the Rumanian claim and in its report on the Dobrudja campaign, chronicled only encounters between advanced detachments.

Fighting in the Somme region of northern France shows little diminution in intensity with attack and counter attack following swiftly.

British Advance Halted
The British advance in the Ancre region seems to have halted, London announcing only artillery activity during the night. Berlin, however, reports heavy attacks by the British yesterday, notably one on the village of Grandcourt, which is declared to have been broken down. The successes against the French scored by the Germans north of the Somme yesterday are reported by Berlin today. They consisted, according to the statement, in the capture by house to house fighting, of the eastern section of the village of Sailly-lez-Lannoy. The French were menacing the German positions in the St. Pierre-Vaast wood and of French trenches on the northern edge of this wood.

For their part, the French reacted against the German south of the Somme, near Chaulnes, where a German counter attack was announced yesterday to have wrested a part of the village of Pressoire from French possession. The French recaptured this ground last night, Paris announces in today's official bulletin.

Invasion of Rumania Continues
The invasion of Rumania is continuing successfully, Berlin announces, although increasing resistance apparently is being encountered by Gen. Falkenhayn's forces along the Wallachian border, the tenacious defense of the Rumanians being mentioned. Nevertheless, progress is claimed for the Teutonic forces along the Rotherthum and Sursud pass roads, with the capture of more than 1200 prisoners.

Allied Successes in Macedonia
In Macedonia, the entente allies are winning further successes in their campaign for Monastir. In their flanking movement on the east, they have advanced far into the Cerna river bend region, to within a few miles of the Teutonic allies on the plain to the south, where the French and Russians are making substantial progress, now being reported by Paris as within four miles of Monastir. The German and Bulgarian army withdrawals in the Cerna river region.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 16.—If your skirt is very short, use a har-

This plan was suggested in the Central police court, and met with Justice Packard's approval.

The plan was suggested by the forewoman of a baking powder concern who was a witness. "Two girl employees had complained that an employee of the concern made an improper remark to them, and thus suggested them to court. He appeared with several witnesses in his behalf.

In her testimony, the forewoman declared that when the girls leaned over to do their work their skirts went so high that she was compelled to put a barrel behind to obstruct view. The justice approved of this and suggested that she go about the streets and do the same kind act for others.

There was nothing in the testimony to bring criminal action against the man and he was discharged.

IRON BALLAST FROM DEUTSCH-

SOUVENIRS

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 16.—Iron ballast weighing 120 tons brought over on the German submarine merchantman Deutschland is to be converted into "Deutschland ironmen" to be sold as souvenirs for the benefit of German widows and orphans of the war, it was stated today. The souvenirs will be a little smaller than an American silver dollar and they will bear impressions in relief showing the Deutschland, and Capt. Koenig's signature. It is said that some of the metal came from European battlefields.

The Deutschland has been repainted of a dark battleship gray and is now considered ready to make a start at any minute on her return trip across the Atlantic.

TOLLEDO, O., Nov. 16.—Missing since 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, two men in Commodore Charles B. Greeing's speed boat, the Baby Rambler, Clint Wynn, 34 and Schuyler Bartholomew, 17, have been given up for lost.

The men started in the teeth of a gale to drive the craft from Monroe, 20 miles away, to Toledo, for drydock. The craft has not been heard from since. Tugs which searched the lake between here and Put-in-Bay yesterday afternoon failed to find a trace of the men or the boat.

TO SEEK EARLY DECISION
BY SUPREME COURT
ON 8 HOUR LAW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Early decision by the supreme court of one of the railroad suits attacking constitutionality of the eight hour law probably will be sought by the department of justice. An appeal probably will be made in the first case decided in the hope that the supreme court may be able to pass judgment as near as possible to Jan. 1, when the law will become effective if not suspended by injunction.

A decision in the highest court would be binding on all lower federal courts and might dispose of all other suits. The department's policy has not been finally settled, but it was said today that this course is being considered and probably would be followed. If an appeal is taken, the court will be asked to decide the case and in view of its importance, officials feel that such a motion would be granted.

Official notice of the filing of 16 suits had been received today by the department, but no determination had been reached as to where it would endeavor to have the first hearing. Preparations were being made today for the meeting Monday of the joint congressional committee to investigate railroad questions, including government ownership. The committee has sent notices to every state governor and attorney general and all state railroad commissions, to commercial and industrial organizations and to the president of every railroad in the country.

Acceptances have been received, among others, from Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania; Otto H. Kuhn of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; F. H. Lehmann, former solicitor general, representing the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.; Samuel Untermyer, President A. T. Hadley and Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale; Frank Irvine, New York public service commissioner; Paul Kling, receiver for the Pere Marquette railway and J. M. Dickinson, receiver for the Rock Island.

No date for the acceptance of witnesses has been set, but the hearing will open Monday with testimony by state railway commissioners.

TRIO ARRESTED
FOR ALLEGED
LARCENY

John Engle and Agnes Flaherty were arraigned before Judge Enright in police court this morning on a complaint charging them with the larceny of a silk dress, valued at $15, the property of the Frankel-Goodman Corp., 242 Central street. According to the police the defendants have records and their method of stealing goods from stores while rather old, has not been worked in this city for a long time.

About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Engle and the Flaherty girl with two other men entered the Frankel-Goodman place and with one of the men was talking to a clerk the others were looking at clothing.

After the quartet had left the store it was found that a silk dress was missing and suspicion rested upon those who had been in the store. Word

CO-OPERATION AMONG PRODUCERS OF COAL

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—The three "C's" in the coal industry—Co-operation, Conservation and Competition—were treated in an address yesterday to the American Mining Congress by E. W. Parker of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., director of the Anthracite bureau of information. He said in part:

"It is encouraging to note that there is at last established under the federal government at Washington a tribunal whose words and deeds so far have shown that it realizes not only the desirability but the necessity for a higher degree of co-operation among the producers of coal, to the end that some stability may be given to the industry and we may hope before long to see coal mining given as fair a chance to exist under the federal trade commission as railroading is under the interstate commerce commission."

"It is reasonable to believe the time is not far distant when coal operators may and will co-operate in an exchange of information relative to trade conditions, car and labor supply, and similar subjects, so that production may be regulated somewhat in accordance with demand, even as now the California fruit growers regulate their shipments with entire satisfaction to the consumers, and with stabilizing of the industry from the growers' standpoint which was not dreamed of twenty years ago."

"There is a branch of industry in which there is greater need of co-operation than among the retailers in any specialty—coal among the rest. The coal merchants are beginning to get together and talk over matters affecting the economy of their business, and to try to solve the problems that confront them, and to try by co-operative methods to improve service to their patrons and achieve a better return on their investment of capital, labor and brains."

"Competition, if it is to be the life of trade, must be competition that constructs and not that which destroys. Price cutting to secure an order and thus to injure the business of a competitor is not according to a high standard of business ethics. It is injurious to the trade as a whole. The rivalry among coal operators (for it is rivalry) in the securing of better living conditions for their employees, is a competition of service. Its object, is through the improved living conditions to develop a better grade of workmen, who by rendering better service to their employers, will enable the latter to render better service to the public."

The sultan said that after the abolition of the capitulations granting extra territorial rights to foreigners, Turkey began negotiations with Germany in regard to an agreement to regulate their legal relations on the basis of European laws and the principle of reciprocity. He hoped the agreement would soon be ratified.

Turkey also gave notice, the sultan continued, of the termination of the Paris and Berlin agreements, which became useless in view of the constant violation of their stipulations.

"Turkey's relations with her allies were developing the sultan added. He reiterated his statement of last year concerning a common policy in the prosecution of the war on all fronts in order to obtain peace and develop the capabilities of the country."

Board of Underwriters

Superintendent Thomas of the Lowell water works is in receipt of a letter from the chief engineer of the national board of underwriters in reference to the recent test of hydrants made in this city. The letter is in the form of a report and shows that considerable improvement has been noted in Lowell's water service.

The letter is as follows:

Robert J. Thomas,
Supt. of Water Dept., Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir:

Enclosed herewith is a tabulation showing the results of the fire flow tests made last week in Lowell and for purposes of comparison, the results in the same localities in 1914.

You will note that test No. 11 (made at Lakeview avenue and Fulton street) shows a very considerable increase in flow, as would be expected with the new 10-inch main in service. Test No. 10 (made at Exeter and Dalton streets) shows about 10 per cent. increase from 1914. Test No. 12 was not made in 1914. In comparison with the results in 1908 it shows increase in flow, but not much, and it appears likely that the increase in 1914 was due to the hydrant used in 1908 and Winter streets did, however, show better flow than in 1914, as would be expected with the new 12-inch main in this section is undoubtedly adequate.

Yours very truly,
George W. Booth,
Chief Engineer,
National Board of Underwriters.

BRITISH IN FRANCE MAKE AN ATTACK ON PARTS OF LINE THAT WERE LONG INACTIVE

BRINGING UP BRITISH GUN

on their strongly fortified position at Thiépval, swung back and regained most of the ground lost in this section. Now, after several months, the British have again struck, and this time have made serious inroads in the German lines.

When the British are able to gain good gun positions north of the Ancre (and it may be that this last attack has brought them this advantage—the German line which stretches north from Beaumont-Hamel will be doubled up on short sections at a time. The situation about Comblès will then be duplicated. A continuation of this process and the line will then be straightened out from Arras south.

"The situation now is that with every advance north of the river not one, but several sections of the German line will be affected. If the Germans south of the Ancre can be dislodged by a flanking operation in the north, then will come a situation very much to the British liking. The salient of which Beaumont-Hamel has been the apex is almost a right angle. The sides of this angle are too far apart for the guns on one side to reach to the other. Unless this can be done there is nothing necessarily weak in this form of battle line. At present there is nothing weak in the German position and will not be until the salient can be sharpened into an acute angle. As this angle is produced the length of German lines which can be reached by the British artillery increases, so that with each blow a greater front is affected. This is the principal danger to the Germans in this last attack."

The map reproduced herewith shows British soldiers bringing up one of the larger pieces after a recent advance on the Somme front.

After a long period of comparative inactivity, or, better, perhaps, futile activity, the British have launched a major attack in an entirely new section of the Somme line," says the military expert of the New York Times.

"This section is in part the line that received the first shock of the British offensive in July. At that time the British advanced beyond the village of Serre, but the Germans, pivoting

OLD AGE PENSION AND HEALTH INSURANCE

About 50 people, including a delegation of women from the Lowell guild, attended the public hearing held in the sideboard chamber at city hall, before the special commission on social insurance, last evening. The commission is composed of two members of the senate, one of whom is chairman; four members of the house of representatives and three outsiders appointed by the governor. The members of the commission present at last evening's hearing were as follows: Senator Farnsworth, chairman; Senator Wood, Rep. Catheron, Wendell G. Thore, Miss Edna L. Spencer and Mr. Meade. At the close of the hearing, it was found that the majority of those present favored non-contributory old-age pensions and a broadening of the scope of health insurance.

The hearing was called to order at 8 o'clock by Chairman Farnsworth, who told how and why the commission was created and explained the purpose of the hearing. It was explained that there were two insurance plans to be considered, the contributory and the non-contributory, although some claim that any system is contributory inasmuch as the people must pay the pension in the last analysis.

Thomas Folsom of Boston, was one of the speakers and he informed the commission that although a resident of the Hub, he came to Lowell some time ago for the purpose of investigating working conditions in Lowell, and accordingly he has secured employment in a local mill. He said his weekly earnings are about $10 and in order to have both ends meet, he does his own cooking on a gas stove in his room. He said he does not believe in special commissions which feed from the state crib, although he was a recent candidate for public office. In the mill and everywhere I go," he said, "I talk old-age pension with those I come in contact with, and I find that the general opinion is for a non-contributory system."

Richard Sykes wished to be registered as being opposed to the system and in the course of his remarks said he has been an employe of a mill for over 50 years, starting in at $7.50 a week. He said: "I have raised a family and managed to save a dollar or two and acquire some real estate. I believe if people were not leading such a high life during their early years, they could save enough to take care of them after they retire from active work. I have about $10,000 in property despite the fact that my wife has been ill for several years. This past year, I have noticed that girls in the mills have been earning anything from $10 to $22 a week. Those people have the same opportunity I had to live frugally and save money, and I don't believe I should be forced to contribute to the support of any man or woman who has been in good health and worked for years. The only solution is an 8-hour day, three shifts, with a law to force every able bodied man to work, and in this manner you will find that the pauper institutions conducted by the cities and state will not be so well filled."

"Can you separate yourself from the community?" asked Miss Spencer. "No, I don't know as I could," Mr. Sykes answered several questions and then stated he believed that when a man reached the age of 50 and meets with reverses, the state should come to his relief as is done in England, and he said he believed proper aid should be given those who have been sober and good patriotic citizens. The next speaker was William E. Sproule, who said he is 42 years of age, married and has two children. He wanted to go on record as favoring the old age pensions. He said although he is earning fairly good money he is hardly able to make both ends meet. He turned his wage as a "tomach wage," but he admitted that his condition is far better than that of half of the people of this country. He favored the non-contributory system.

The last speaker was Benjamin Staveley, who said in England and couples are kept together and they get 10 shillings a week for pension. He said the thought that he and his wife might be separated in their old age has shortened their days. At this point a standing vote was taken in favor of the non-contributory system and more than half of the attendance stood up.

The hearing was then declared closed and the matter of health insurance was taken up. Miss Clara E. Holland of the Lowell Guild said that in the past three months the guild has assisted 258 families where there is insurance carried by the Metropolitan Insurance Co. In 198 other families treatment has been given and in 78 families full payment has been received. In 126 cases there has been only part or no pay given and in 37 families no money has been paid whatsoever. Miss Holland favored the passage of some legislation which will enable persons who put aside a small part of their earnings to get proper care in case of sickness or injury.

In reply to a question from Lawrence Cummings the chairman of the commission said hearings have been held in Boston and the commission had collected much data relative to organizations which collect weekly stipends from their members. Mr. Cummings said he believed much good would be derived if the insurance commissioners were brought into conference with the special committee. He said he wants to have the people, so far as they are able, take care of themselves. "If men or women through no fault of their own, meet with misfortune, then they should not be cast aside and made paupers or else driven to poverty," said Mr. Cummings.

Dr. Francis R. Mahoney was the last speaker and his remarks had to do with the relation of health insurance to the workman's compensation act. He said many cases come under the act, which properly should come under health insurance and he cited a few cases. The doctor concluded by saying that in order to successfully continue the workman's compensation act it is necessary to broaden the scope of social insurance. The commission returned to Boston last evening and today is holding hearings in Fall River.

THE BRITISH REPLY

England refuses to back down on her blacklist of firms in America with which she forbids her subjects to trade. Sir Edward Grey writes a lengthy reply to the American note and seems to make out a strong case in justification of refusing to trade with concerns known to be in sympathy with the powers with which England is at war and whose places, according to this note, have been made bases of supply for German cruisers. Here is a significant declaration from the British reply:

"It is common knowledge that German business establishments in foreign countries have been not merely centres of German trade, but active agents for the dissemination of German political and social influence and for the purpose of espionage. In some cases they have been used as bases of supply for German cruisers and in other cases as organizers and paymasters of miscreants employed to destroy by foul means factories engaged in making, or ships engaged in carrying supplies required by the allies.

"Such operations have been carried on in the territory even of the United States itself, and I am bound to observe, what I do not think will be denied, that no adequate action has yet been taken by the government of the United States to suppress breaches of neutrality of this particular criminal kind, which I know that they are the first to discontinue and deplore."

That is a charge of breaches of neutrality by American citizens without any move on the part of the United States to provide a remedy. This no doubt has reference to the numerous explosions in munitions factories, in ships loaded with munitions for the allies and in other cases.

The United States government has done all in its power to discover the perpetrators of these crimes, but without much success. The evidence by which some culprits were convicted showed pretty clearly that there were certain miscreants in this country engaged in that business. These crimes were breaches of neutrality for which the United States cannot be held responsible, for the reason that so far as the department of justice could run down the criminals they were arrested and punished or else deported.

The contention of Viscount Grey is, that England as a sovereign state has a right to so direct the trade of her subjects that it will not increase the resources of the nations with which she is at war and thereby tend to prolong the struggle. On the other hand the government of the United States has a right to protect its citizens against discrimination, provided the charges made against those named on the blacklist cannot be substantiated. Otherwise, it would appear, the task would be hopeless. On which government does the burden of proof lie? That appears to be an important question to be threshed out later but on which the solution of the difficulty may finally depend.

SLEEPLESS STUDENTS

There is a great demand for an eight hour day all over this country and part of the reason on which it is urged is, that the workers may have eight hours for work, eight hours for sleep and eight for doing as they please. At Harvard university at the present time, there is an inquiry into the number of hours' sleep a student should have in order to do his best work. Too much sleep, it is said, makes a dull head, while too little is even worse. The Harvard authorities, it appears, find that a certain proportion of the students do not sleep enough and the students themselves are in favor of less than eight hours for slumber. The authorities are beginning to find that many of the students are unable to do their best work from lack of sleep. Whether they burn too much of the midnight oil or engage in nightly carousals is not shown, but the "night owl" is not an unknown character among the students of unlimited means. What is true of Harvard in this respect is true of all colleges where the students are their own masters after lecture hours.

DEMONEZITIZING GOLD

The proposition to demonetize gold in the interest of European nations that are not likely to be able to pay their debts in that medium, will not be popular in this country. The presidential campaign of 1896 was fought on the issue of establishing the monetary ratio of 16 to 1 for silver and gold in this country has changed the standard for our money. At that time it was necessary because gold was scarce and silver was plenty; but the great increase in the production of gold since that time has changed the situation entirely, so that those who favored bimetalism then would probably oppose it today. Moreover, England then held the greater part of the gold supply of the world. Today the United States holds more perhaps than any two of the greatest nations, the latter having had to pay out their stock for expenditures in the war. The United States conducted its transactions with the countries at war on a gold basis and expects to get paid in money of equal value.

MEXICAN COMMISSION

That is rather startling news that comes from Atlantic City to the effect that the chairman of the Mexican commission has backed down on the agreement made with two American representatives endeavoring to assist Mexico in formulating a plan that will restore normal conditions along the border, if not throughout that unhappy country. The commission as a whole had agreed upon a plan and expected no further question as to its adoption, but the chairman went to Philadelphia, where he conferred with a Mexican official. When he returned, he refused to agree to the details of the plan and hence there is a possibility that the whole undertaking may be abandoned by the American representatives, leaving the Mexican question in its big a muddle as ever. It would be interesting to know just what influence was used to turn the pliant chairman of the commission from his concurrence in the plan previously adopted.

TURNING OUT DOPE FIENDS

The charge that certain Boston doctors are making dope fiends in large numbers is quite alarming. Luxurious drug parlors are found equipped in the fashionable district in the Back Bay and it is said that one physician engaged in this business has written from 160 to 175 prescriptions a day. To degrade the medical profession in such a manner is a high crime in itself, but to start so many people on the downward path as drug fiends is still worse. These doctors catered only to wealthy people as may be judged from the fact that each prescription cost $2.

The district attorney of Boston will accomplish a most laudable work if he puts an end to this wholesale manufacture of dope fiends and sends the guilty doctors to jail.

AMERICAN U-BOAT

While the feat of the German submarines in crossing the Atlantic is being commented upon as unique, it may be of interest to state that a U-boat has been built at the Fore River shipyards at Quincy capable of a speed of 15.2 knots an hour on the surface with a cruising radius of 3000 miles. The boat has been built for Spain but still better will be built for the United States under the direction of the strategy board made up of the greatest inventors in the world.

FAKE SOLICITORS

The Boston chamber of commerce has done good work in stopping the appeals for fake charities. One of the impostors shown up was soliciting funds to purchase wooden limbs for French and English soldiers. The fake charity solicitor is found in every community, finding a sufficient number of easy victims to make his business profitable. There have been many of them here in Lowell and some which the Boston authorities hunted down.

It is to be regretted that so little interest was shown in the hearing by the Social Insurance commission at city hall last night on the question of finding a means of protecting the wage earner in case of sickness and in old age. The subject is new, of course, and the public had rather short notice. The matter is one that will engage the attention of citizens and legislators in the future although public sentiment at the present time is opposed to extending the pension system for any class.

Now that we are on the verge of cold weather, as usual a great many will be found wearing unsuitable clothing with the results that colds and other ailments will follow. Safety first and preparedness are important considerations at this season.

And the returns show, despite the wall from republican sources in the half of the border states, that the voters of those states had more faith in a democratic administration than in a republican.

Seen and Heard

The hardest thing in the world to recover when once lost is friendship.

There are some women of 60 who are much more fascinating than some girls of 20.

You may say what you will about fat and good nature, but we notice that the fat man always wants the lion's share.

Judging from the display of photographs and some made known to their campaign cards the candidates are on pretty good terms with themselves.

We have "congressmen and a congresswoman but the old congress shoes has gone by the board with the exception of a few pairs down in Lawrence where girls wear wooden stockings.

How many people know what the state flag of Massachusetts looks like? Do you? Well here is a description of it. It is of white silk, with a state coat of arms on one side and on the other side a blue shield with a representation of a green pine tree. The entire flag is five feet in length and four and one-half in width. This flag was adopted in 1895.

Comforting Knowledge

Sir David Henderson, director general of military aeronautics, possesses a vein of grim humor. "Don't be nervous," he once remarked to a novice in the art of flying, who showed some repugnance while preparing for his first flight. "Don't be nervous; you'll come down again. There is no known instance of an airplane not alighting."

Duels In Greenland

In Greenland when one man has been insulted by another the adversary is expected to satisfy his honor. This each man recites to his household until the servants and the women know it by heart. Then a place of meeting is appointed. The two men, the insulted and the offender, stand face to face, and each recites his poem. His friends and servants form a chorus. Each man tries hard to raise the laugh against his adversary. Each man speaks in turn, whipping the enemy with epigrams and quips, and after two hours of battle, the victor of the meeting gives the victory to him of the two adversaries who has amused the whole assembly most.

Shooting Stars

"Look for shooting stars tonight," said the Boston Post Monday, but it was of little use to try to follow on the advice, unless one went to moving picture shows where the stars were indulging in pistol play. But the reason for the Post's advice was that Nov. 13 is the most famous date in history for the special phenomenon. Monday was the anniversary of three great "showers of falling stars" that struck terror into men's hearts, partly because they each came on the 13th of the month, and partly because many people declared that the fulfillment was at hand of the description of the world's end in the Apocalypse. "The stars of heaven fell on the earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely fruit, when she is shaken of a mighty wind." The "star rain" of Nov. 13, 1833, was one of the events which are recalled with such other unique phenomena and the freezing of Boston harbor, the great yellow day, etc.

Claims He Almost Gave Up Hope

William S. Chapman of 55 Mount Grove St. Tells How He Suffered 20 Years

In a recent interview, The Plant Juice Man, who has his headquarters at Dows, The Druggists', in Merrimack Square, said:

"We have introduced Plant Juice into a number of great American cities and everywhere it has met with tremendous success. Plant Juice is purely an herbal preparation and is proving to be the greatest ever produced. Once the public of a city tests it, they know its merits, and great demand for it follows. It is particularly a tonic for city people, where modern modes and customs of life lead to various forms of debility—nervous, stomach, blood and kidney troubles, for example, and run down condition. Plant Juice, taken up as does no other preparation, it gives immediate relief and lasting results. All forms of stomach, liver, kidney trouble and blood disorders are relieved by Plant Juice. It is a true specific for general debility and organic weakness in men and women, and is sure to bring a return of buoyant spirits, of cheerfulness and good health.

Selecting at random from a mass of written testimonials is that of Mr. William S. Chapman, who lives at No. 55 Mount Grove St. and is a well known carpenter, who has been a resident of Lowell for the past 35 years and has many friends and acquaintances. He stated: "I had been troubled with stomach, kidney, bladder trouble and constipation for the past 20 years and had almost given up hope of ever getting relief. Most everything I ate would distress me. I was bloated with gas, which gave me constant pain, could not sleep at night, had headaches, was very dizzy at times, and had terrible pains in my back, and in fact, all over my body. My tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth continually. I became very nervous and restless, felt tired all the time and had no ambition or energy to attend to my work. Finally I started to take Plant Juice, and after a few days I had greatly relieved my stomach, and the pains from which I suffered. I can sleep well and feel better in every way. I am glad to recommend Plant Juice to others."

The Plant Juice Man is at Dows, The Druggists', in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

TWO LONG YEARS HE SUFFERED

"Fruit-a-lives" Made Him Feel As If Walking On Air

ORILLIA, Nov. 28th, 1914.

"For over two years, I was troubled with Constipation, Drowsiness, Lack of Appetite and Headaches. One day I saw your sign which read 'Fruit-a-lives make you feel like walking on air.' This appealed to me, so I decided to try a box. In a very short time, I began to feel better, and now I feel fine. I have a good appetite, relish everything I eat, and the headaches are gone entirely. I recommend this pleasant fruit medicine to all my friends."

comes to every girl to stay close indoors, and protect her comfort from the weather. She likes to sit by the fireplace and read, to work about the warm kitchen, or sew or crochet in the living room, by the glowing heater, when it is raining and blowing and cold on the road.

Fortunate, indeed, is the girl who has some task that must take her out of doors a certain amount each day, for she is the one who will exercise enough. A walk to school, to work, or even after cows is a fine thing. For she will keep her cheeks, a trim figure, and a bright eye, while her sister who sits indoors will come through the winter with a pasty complexion and too much flesh.

Get out of doors all through November, and the following months. Make it your business to get out every day, rain or shine, and walk, ride or run in the open air. Do not coddle yourself. Begin preparing now to leave your window wide open at night, whatever the weather may be, my dear, whatever the weather may be.

Be an outdoor girl this winter. Keep young, strong, healthy and hearty. There is nothing better than a daily tramp in the fresh air to keep your digestive system in order, your skin fresh and soft, and your expression happy.—Annie Frances in Farm Life.

The Day's Result

Is anybody happier because you passed his way? Does anyone remember that you spoke this day is almost over and its tolling time is through. Is there anyone to offer now a kindly word of yours?

Did you give a cheerful greeting to the friend who came along. Or a cheerful sort of "howdy" and then vanish in the throng? Were you rushed, pure and simple as you rushed along every day? Or is someone mightily grateful for a deed you did today?

Can you say tonight in parting with the day that's slipping fast That you helped a single brother of the many that you passed? Is a single heart rejoicing over what you did or said?

Does a man whose hopes were fading now with courage look ahead? Did you waste the day or use it, was it well or poorly spent? Did you leave a trail of kindness or a cloud of selfish discontent? As you close your eyes in slumber do you think that God would say You have earned one more tomorrow by the work you did today?

TARNOWSKI NAMED AS AUSTRIAN AMBASSADOR

COUNT TARNOWSKI

The date for the departure of the new Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States, Count Adam Tarnowski von Tarnow, for Washington has not been fixed, but he is not likely to leave Sofia, where he is stationed as Austro-Hungarian minister, for three weeks. Count Tarnowski is now at Sofia winding up his affairs there. Before he starts for the United States arrangements for his safe conduct through the British spheres must be made.

That Count Tarnowski is going to Washington pleases all circles in Vienna and at Budapest, as he is regarded as the man best suited for the post, apart from the fact that he is one of the most able diplomats in the monarchy. The newspapers in commenting on his appointment generally express satisfaction that the Washington post is to be filled again and the hope that the new ambassador will succeed in fostering in the United States not only good relations between Austria-Hungary and this country, but also the right impression of Austria-Hungary's position and objectives in the war. ROOSEVELT BIRTHPLACE TO BE TORN DOWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The old four-story house in Twentieth street in which Col. Theodore Roosevelt was born, Oct. 27, 1858, is to be torn down to make room for a modern business place, it was announced today. Several years ago the Roosevelt Home club was organized with $1 membership fee to preserve the building as a place of historic interest, but owing to the lapse of payments on a mortgage the property was recently sold under foreclosure.

Among those who addressed the gathering were David G. Common, Hugh Walker, Archibald MacLaughlin, Alex. Smith and A. E. Johnston. Preceding the supper price was said by James

EMPLOYERS OF 7,000,000 IN NEW ORGANIZATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Formation of the National Industrial Conference Board with 12 of the most important industrial organizations of the country in its membership, as a "Clearing House of Information," in the proposed study of problems confronting manufacturers of the United States, was announced here yesterday at a meeting of the National Founders' association, an organization of iron manufacturers.

Frederick P. Fish, banker of Boston, is chairman and Magnus W. Alexander of West Lynn, Mass., manager of the new organization. The industrial bodies which have joined the board are the National Founders' association, National Metal Trades association, National Council for Industrial Defense, National Association of Manufacturers, National Erectors' association, National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, National Association of Wool Manufacturers, Silk Association of America, National Typothetae of America, Franklin Clubs of America, American Paper and Pulp association and Rubber Club of America.

Membership in these organizations is said to number 15,000 employers, giving work to approximately 7,000,000 persons and representing about $8,000,000,000 of capital.

Heretofore to a substantial extent, said Mr. Alexander, "each manufacturer has studied only the problem directly affecting himself, ignoring the fact that all industry is inter-related and that there is a vital need for co-operative action and united effort. This has brought many new problems and peace will bring many more. These must be studied and solved."

The conference board will be a clearing house of information. Its purpose will be to analyze and present the essential elements in the situation, suggest methods and inspire united and intelligent action, industry in this country must have the sympathetic support of the public. BURGLAR CAPTURED BY HAVERHILL WOMAN

HAVERHILL, Nov. 16.—After a desperate hand-to-hand fight with a burglar, whom she found in her home on her return from a visit to a neighbor's house, Mrs. Cora E. Laing, wife of Raphael M. Laing of 3 Summer street, last evening subdued the man and held him until passersby, in answer to her screams, came to her assistance and held him for arrest.

Frank Barnescorst, 30 years old, claiming to live at 131 Common street, Lawrence, was arrested, charged with breaking and entering and larceny.

Mrs. Laing soon after supper paid a brief visit to a neighbor. When she returned, she saw Barnescorst standing in the sitting room with her handbag in his grasp. She asked why he was there and what he wanted.

The man offered to return to her the contents of the handbag, among which was some jewelry. For answer, Mrs. Laing seized him by the arms and began to scream for help.

The young man tossed her about, from side to side the two struggled and the man was nearing the end of the kitchen that connected with a door.

The woman locked this door and then sprang between the man and the only other means of exit, seaming at the white. Harry W. Bailey, assistant city engineer, and Clyde B. Ranlett, passing at the time, heard the cries and rushed to the house.

SEEK TO ENJOIN STRIKERS

Four Nashua Firms Ask Injunctions Against Molders to Prevent Interference With Employees

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 16.—Capital in its dispute with labor has resorted to methods of injunction for the first time in the history of Nashua.

Frederick W. Mansfield, recently democratic nominee for governor in Massachusetts, is one of the counsel for labor.

More than 100 of the striking iron molders of this city appeared in court yesterday morning, in answer to summonses to show cause why they should not be enjoined from interfering with men employed at the Co-operative foundry, the White Mountain Freezer company, the Fletcher Machine company, and William Hight & Sons.

Judge Pike, after conference with Mr. Mansfield and ex-Mayor William H. Barry, counsel for the respondents, and County Solicitor John R. Flynn, representing the complainants, put the hearing over till next Wednesday.

URGE HEAVY PENALTY FOR CAR DELAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The American Railway association, at its semi-annual meeting here yesterday, to consider car shortage, adopted a per diem charge ranging from 45 cents to $1.25 for each freight car which any one road shall withhold from another and decided to impose a demurrage penalty on any road which violates the association rules relating to car shortage. There were 252 members present, representing about 300,000 miles of road.

The association also appointed a committee to confer in Louisville on Friday with Interstate Commerce Commissioner McChord, with a view to effecting co-operation with the government upon car shortage. The men appointed were C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central; H. E. Byram, vice president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; G. L. Peck, fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh; W. G. Besler, president of the Central railroad of New Jersey.

It is the plan of the railroads to make the new demurrage rules effective December 1, assuming the approval of the Interstate Commerce commission. The new rules are declared by the association to provide exceptionally drastic penalties against railroads detaining on their lines freight cars belonging to another railroad. Following are the demurrage penalties proposed, which the association hopes will promote the prompt unloading of freight cars by shippers.

"After the expiration of free time, $3 for the first day, $3 for the second day,

$4 for the third day and $5 for the fourth and each succeeding day."

The resolution provides that a road will be penalized $5 for every car which, owned by another road, it may, upon reloading, divert in any direction except the one which would take it back toward the home road.

The per diem minimum charge of 45 cents approximates the cost of ownership of equipment, it was stated, and the maximum of $1.25 represents this cost, plus the net earnings of the car. The principle of variable per diem will be based upon car and traffic conditions, with a special committee to determine when the per diem should vary.

PRES. GOMPERS TALKS ON ADAMSON LAW

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 16.—President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor today received telegrams from the heads of the four railroad brotherhoods saying they expected to address the federation at convention next Monday or Tuesday on the 8-hour law. The belief seemed to be general among the federation delegates today that the convention would take action to co-operate with their brotherhoods in insisting on enforcement of the law.

While Gompers would not commit himself as advocating a strike by the railroad men if the law is not made effective, he asked the newspapermen why there should not be a strike if the law is not enforced. Vice-President Duncan and O'Connell expressed themselves as in favor of the railroad men waiting a reasonable length of time, in the event of an injunction for the United States supreme court to take up the case.

HUNTER KILLED FOR DEER
ROXBURY, Me., Nov. 16.—Clarence Campbell of Roxbury Mills, while hunting here yesterday forenoon with Charles Dane, was accidentally shot by Harry Marston of Mexico, Me., who mistook him for a deer.

The charge entered Campbell's side and he lived only five minutes. Dane and Marston hurriedly summoned aid, but to no avail. Dr. W. T. Rowe of Rumford, medical examiner, was called. The body was brought out of the woods this afternoon.

Mr. Campbell was 40 and leaves a wife and two young children.

O. M. I. SCHOLASTICATE DEDICATED TODAY

LOWELL PRIESTS AT DEDICATORY AND ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES IN WASHINGTON

The new O.M.I. scholasticate recently erected in Washington, D. C., was dedicated this morning and the event had a double significance, for it also marked the 10th anniversary of the founding of the Oblate order. The dedication ceremonies, which were held this forenoon were attended by a large number of priests representing dioceses from all over the country, and among them were several local clergymen, including Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O.M.I., provincial of the order and under whose direction the new building was erected. Rev. Lawrence P. Tighe, O.M.I., and others.

The double exercises were held at a solemn high mass celebrated in the scholastic chapel at 10 o'clock by Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Shanahan, D.D., rector of the Catholic university of Washington. His Eminence Cardinal James Gibbons, D.D., presided over the exercises, while the sermon was given by Rt. Rev. Michael F. Fallon, O.M.I., D.D., of London, Ont.

$80,000 FOR POOR CHILDREN
STOCKHOLM, Nov. 16.—Nearly $80,000 was raised on the so-called "Barnes Day" (Children's day) in Stockholm, a city of less than 400,000 inhabitants. The institution is an annual one, started some years ago to raise a fund to send poor children to the country for a vacation in the summer time. Cowboys and cowgirls, in chaps, sombreros and bandana shirts, rode about the streets bearing contributions boxes. Boys and girls in fantastic costumes, hayrack loads of merry young people in varied guise, automobiles carrying popular actors and actresses all made it their business to see that nobody escaped without contributing and added greatly to the day's proceeds.

MUSHROOMS SOAR
BERLIN, November.—For no explainable reason except speculation mushrooms have soared in price to such a height that the authorities are being called on to step in, establish maximum prices, or take some similar measure to keep them within reach of the common people.

This season mushrooms are so plentiful that the price paid by the wholesaler to those who gather them ranges from 50 to 40 pfennigs a pound. Even at this low rate, families during the summer made from 50 to 100 marks a day by making excursions into the country and picking as many mushrooms as they could carry.

Notwithstanding, this superabundance of the plants has not tended in the slightest to keep the retail prices down. Today mushrooms sell at retail for from 110 to 125 pfennigs a pound.

ENGLAND MAY GO ON FOOD TICKETS

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, in parliament yesterday outlined the government's proposal for dealing with the food problem.

Mr. Runciman's speech had significance aside from its actual content as showing that the government is looking forward to protracted hostilities and foresees the necessity of timely measures for insuring the national food supply by an effective organization of national resources in a manner similar to that adopted in the enemy countries.

Mr. Runciman announced the imminent appointment of a committee with full power over all departments concerned in food supplies, and immediate measures to restrict the luxurious use of sugar, to prevent waste and the making of large profits in potatoes and milk, and to forbid the milling of pure white flour.

He said also that the government would ask new powers under the defense of the realm act to deal with all attempts to exploit public necessities.

These measures, Mr. Runciman explained, would be temporary, but if they were found inefficient, it might become necessary to have recourse to food tickets.

All Parties Welcome Plan

The speech of the president of the board of trade was welcomed in all parts of the house, Sir Edward Carson, on behalf of the opposition, and George J. Wardle, for the laborites, agreed that the house was ready to grant the power asked without the formality of a bill.

Mr. Runciman also announced that the government intends to bring about the pooling of engineering resources in order to expedite ship-building.

Mr. Runciman added that steps would be taken to control imported flour and that orders would be issued forthwith, calling for milk contracts in order to limit the price. Runciman admitted the time had arrived when the government must consider the question of food supplies as a war problem, declaring that the grain the country would have to learn next year would be mainly in connection with the food supply.

To Prohibit Some Costly Foods

He saw no reason why at the end of this year the production of shipping for the preceding six months should not approach 500,000 tons. Announcing that he was making arrangements for a pooling of engineering effort on the part of the board of trade, Mr. Runciman said the government must "make the plunge" in this matter, for the provision of more merchant ships was most urgent.

He said the question of dispensing with some articles of food was under consideration and in this connection he mentioned elaborate and costly confectionery, concerning which a committee of the royal society had been advising the board of trade.

The retail prices of foodstuffs compared with a year ago have increased on an average of 27 per cent, says the report of the board of trade. They have increased 78 per cent, over prices before the war. The prices of sugar, eggs, fish and potatoes, however, are more than double the pre-war prices.

Of the total British tonnage of steam merchant shipping of 1000 tons and over at the beginning of the war, the net loss to Sept. 30, 1916, was slightly over 25 per cent. Thomas J. McNamara, financial secretary of the British admiralty, told a questioner today in the house. This, he said, included losses from all sources, whether war or marine risks.

Lords Stirred by U-Boat Work

The submarine issue came up in the house of lords this afternoon. Baron Sydenham invited the government to make a declaration in the nature of a "ton for ton" policy in behalf of Great Britain and her allies. He declared there was an uneasy feeling that the submarine menace was more serious than the authorities were willing to admit.

Admiral Lord Beresford said Great Britain had arrived at a serious crisis, calling for energy and foresight, because the house of commons and the press had been muzzled by the most autocratic government since the time of Pharaoh.

"Had the blockade been properly enforced from the first," he asserted, "we should not have been faced by the submarine menace."

The Marquis of Crewe, lord president of the council, replied: "It is useless to threaten to exact particular reparations in the terms of peace unless we are able to impose those terms by obtaining complete victory."

He said the difficulties in dealing with German submarine war on commerce had increased.

OFFER TO BAR TIPS

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—After careful and prolonged deliberation, the hotel and restaurant waiters of Boston have announced officially that they are willing to relinquish their time-honored and jealously guarded privilege of accepting tips from those they serve.

But they also announce that they will do this only if their employers will agree to raise their wages from $30 a month to $18 a week. This proposition was formally submitted yesterday to the Boston Hotel Men's association by John J. Kearney, head of the House and Restaurant Employees' Local No. 24. The hotel men have taken the proposition under consideration.

WILSON THANKS WEST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—President Wilson expressed his gratitude to the people of the west for their support in the election in messages sent last night in reply to requests that he visit that section before congress opens. He said he would be unable to make the trip because of critical duties, but promised to go west later if possible.

EXAMPLES OF PAINTERS' ART IN LOWELL

Two beautiful and impressive examples of artistic and up-to-date painting and decorating that have recently been completed in Lowell are the interior of the Washington Savings Institution, formerly the Traders bank, on Middlesex street, and the exterior of the Bon Marche building, on Merrimack street. Both examples are the work of Dwyer & Co., painters and decorators, on Appleton street, and they have been freely and favorably commented on by the public.

The first impression one gets on entering the bank is one of brightness and light. This is largely due to the skillful selection and blending of colors as no sombre shades were used, excepting the warm mahogany tone of the woodwork which contrasts so well with the light walls and ceiling. The panels in the ceiling are ivory white, outlined with the classic moldings in pure white. The Corinthian capitals of the supporting pillars are also delicately brought out in the pure white, and the large wall spaces are treated in grey buff. All of these things are in buff, showing beautiful against the bright walls. Added color note and they harmonize in creating an atmosphere of classic brightness in keeping with the character of the institution.

All the woodwork, including the new vestibule and the curved partition is treated in natural mahogany, its warm brown color showing beautifully against the bright walls. At night, when the lights are on, the interior is so strikingly beautiful that many have stopped to admire it when passing.

Bon Marche Building

Another job of which the Dwyer company is justifiably proud is the exterior of the Bon Marche building on Merrimack street which has set a new standard for the buildings in that locality. The Bon Marche has been finished in buff, of the Colonial shade, giving the effect of the substantial buff brick buildings that one sees in larger cities. This treatment has brought out the beautiful lines of the massive exterior, and there is artistic relief in the granite trim which completes the effect. The lower part of decorative finish beneath the coping and above the windows of the top story has been given the granite finish and the same effect has been carried out in the sculptured medallions of lions' heads which are an attractive feature of the front. The present appearance of the Bon Marche adds considerably to the attractiveness of the street, and Mr. Dwyer says it was not by any means an easy task. Both examples referred to show the great possibilities of buildings that are brought up-to-date by the art of the progressive painter and decorator.

Adding this department's income to the operating income, it is found that the company's net operating revenue was $2,261,603.27, or $109,051.26 less than for the year ending June 30, 1915. The company paid taxes as follows: On its property, $167,641.97; on its capital stock, $216,569.57; on its earnings, $222,309.29; and miscellaneous taxes, $2541.25, a total of $606,061.18, which was $44,319.09 less than for the previous year. The company owns 902 miles of track, and operates 652.8 miles. The road and its equipment are listed as being worth $16,552,252.64, and other miscellaneous items bring the company's total assets to $47,824,072.17. It had a balance June 30, 1915, of $5751.23, but for June 30, 1916, this had been increased to $125,270.61.

It has 1022 closed, and 1105 open passenger cars; 32 express cars, 147 work cars; 254 snow plows; and 2 instruction cars, giving a total of 2575 pieces of rolling stock. WAGES OF 4000 ADVANCED 12 PER CENT

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 16.—The wages of between 3000 and 4000 office men and other salaried employees of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., here, were advanced about 12 per cent, today through the extension of the bonus system from the shops where it has been in force for a long time.

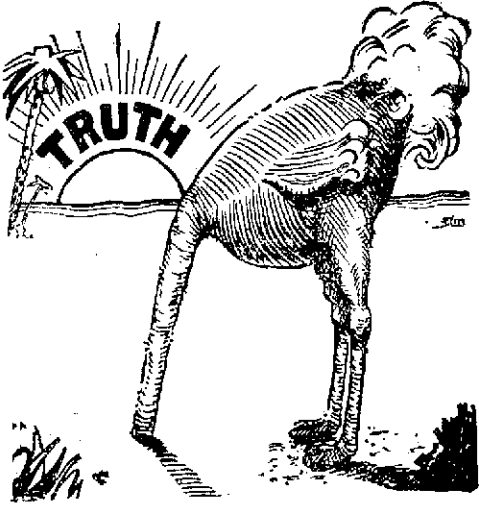

By the terms of the extension, every employee will receive a bonus amounting to 8 per cent, of his salary each month, providing total excusable time absent and late during that period does not exceed six hours incurred on not more than three occasions. An additional four per cent, will be given every month to employees who have not lost any time through absence or tardiness.

The system is made effective from Nov. 1, bringing a total of approximately 15,000 employees, official, clerical and mechanical under the plan. It was stated that other corporations were watching the innovation with a view to extending it to their plants.

HEAVY DAMAGE TO APPLE CROP BY COLD WAVE

HOOD RIVER, Ore., Nov. 16.—Based on reports from all apple districts of the northwest sales agency officials here today estimated the aggregate losses to the apple industry by the cold wave which has prevailed for nearly a week past at $1,500,000. The frost, it was said, had made unfit for shipment approximately 1,750,000 boxes of apples in the four states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. The loss in the Hood River district placed at 10 to 15 per cent, of the total crop.

MINOR LEAGUE TEAMS GETTING GAMES WERE

Some interesting contests were rolled last evening, in the City Minor league. The Merrimack, Highland Daylights, Kinbolls and Firecrackers won from the Middlesex Grays, Spindle City and Bridge Street quitters, respectively. The matches were hard fought and were witnessed by large audiences. Team of the Highland Daylights had the best score of the night with a total of 417 and also made the best single string with a pinfall of 129.

In the last miserable league, the Dodgers took four points from the Wolves, Montgomery's hitting featuring for the winners. This total was 221.

ADMISSION 15 CENTS

ELEPHENS OF PENNSYLVANIA AND MICHIGAN
READY TO GIVE BATTLE AT ANN ARBOR

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 16.—The eleven of Michigan and Pennsylvania are ready for their annual gridiron battle which will take place on Perry field here Nov. 18. Although no championship title hinges on this result, widespread interest is being taken in the battle. According to the managers, at least 25,000 people should witness the conflict. Since Michigan won the last year's game, the contest will be a hard fought and a record breaking crowd will probably attend.

Harvard Athletic association sends out the following notice so that there will be no deception on its part regarding the makeup of the Harvard team in the game with Brown in the stadium on Saturday.

The Harvard coaching staff does not expect to start the game against Brown next Saturday with the same line-up of the men who started the game with Princeton. Their purpose is to avoid possible injuries to first string men and to give the substitutes who may be used against Yale experience in a hard game. Under these circumstances, although the team which will start will be by no means a weak one, the management feels that it ought to give both graduates and the public, who have purchased tickets with the expectation of seeing first string men start the game, an opportunity to redeem them if they wish. Tickets may be redeemed at this office on or before Friday, Nov. 17.

GARDNER BROOKS HAS TWO NEW YORK BOUTS

WILL MEET "MEMPHIS" FAL MOORE AT PIONEER CLUB SATURDAY NIGHT

Gardner Brooks, the clever local bantamweight, has been matched to meet Pat Moore of Memphis, Tenn., at the Pioneer Sporting club, New York, Saturday evening. He will box on the 27th of the month also, according to Jerry Delton, his New York manager. Brooks was in active training in Diamond Hill, Rhode Island, for three weeks and last Monday went over to New York where he is working out daily. He is said to be in A condition and his followers in this city hope to see him win his last Saturday night.

YALE'S FINAL PRACTICE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 16.—Yale's last football practice before the Princeton game will be held in the Bowl this afternoon. The first and second teams will have a drill to start for half an hour, after which the gates will be thrown open to enable the students to see the remainder of the work. The entire student body headed by a band, planned to march to the field to practice cheers and songs.

The physical condition of a number of players still causes the coaches considerable anxiety. Legora, the star back, is believed to be strained down the line and he will do nothing except run through stunts and practice punting for the remainder of the week.

While Yale men generally are optimistic over the outcome, they are demanding odds from Princeton. The betting so far has been light.

NEBES MADE CLEAN-UP AT SCHENECTADY

LOWELL BOY WON ALL ROLLER SKATING RACES THERE—MADE RECORD LAST NIGHT

The greatest roller skating race ever seen in Schenectady, N. Y., was the characterization of the contest between Albert Nebes of Lowell and five skaters, there last night in a message received by The Sun this morning.

Nebes who had won his races there on Monday and Tuesday nights, was opposed by the new best man in the state last night. The race was of ten laps, with Nebes giving his opponents a mile handicap. Each of the skaters was to skate two miles. The race was exciting throughout, and the Lowell boy was forced to use all his speed and cunning to pull down the victor. He covered eleven miles and two laps, while his opponents were going ten miles. He established a record for half an hour, after which the gates will be thrown open to enable the students to see the remainder of the work. The entire student body headed by a band, planned to march to the field to practice cheers and songs.

EXETER PRACTICES ON ICE COVERED FIELD

EXETER, N. H., Nov. 16.—Coach Harry Vaughan, clad in a heavy top coat and rubber boots, yesterday afternoon put his Exeter eleven through a long signal drill and scrimmage on a field covered with an inch of ice and snow, while on the bleachers the undergraduates who had kicked the ice-clogs from the boards sat and sang their school songs, and cheered the eleven.

The customary march to the field was made across the ice and snow, making it a decidedly wintry picture. The chill of the afternoon did not dampen the spirits of the students, or check the snap of the players, who slipped and slid across the snow in an encouraging manner.

YALE TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF SHEVLIN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 16.—An impressive tribute to the memory of Thomas L. Shevlin, former Yale football captain and coach, who died last winter, was given by 750 Yale students at a mass meeting last night.

At the mention of Shevlin's name by one of the speakers, the students rose in a body and gave the university cheer with nine "shevlins" at the end.

A year ago, Shevlin came to New Haven from the west and developed what seemed to be a hopelessly beaten team into one that won over Princeton.

Head coach "Bud" Jones, principal speaker at the meeting, said the two greatest Yale captains, in his opinion, were Shevlin and Black, present leader of the eleven. Jones spoke optimistically of Yale's chances in the Princeton game next Saturday.

BIG HIGH SCHOOL
FOOTBALL GAME
SATURDAY

The biggest and most important game on the Lowell high school football schedule will take place in the new Haverhill stadium with Haverhill high as the opposing team, Saturday afternoon. The gridiron at the stadium is now covered with a thin coating of snow and ice but work has been started to put it in condition for the big game.

The coming clash is attracting considerable interest not only in Lowell and Haverhill, but all along the Merrimack valley. The Lowell team is strong and despite the fact that its captain and star half back is on the injured list, the remainder of the team possesses sufficient pluck and is ready to go into the game prepared to give the Haverhill eleven a hard battle. Coach Conway is preparing for the game with great caution in an endeavor to fill the loss sustained by Liston's absence. Arthur Lynch will undoubtedly be Lowell's star on the attack.

The Haverhill team is considered to be slightly heavier than Lowell and therefore has this advantage. Lowell has opposed and defeated heavier teams than its own before this season, however, and the question of weight is not bothering the players much. The game is bound to be hard fought and a record breaking crowd will probably attend.

Haverhill high is a likely contender for the championship of the state. It has not lost a game all season, but was forced to accept a tie from Manchester last week. The score was 13-12. The Manchester eleven was the same team that beat Lowell by a 7 to 0 score by a "lucky" touchdown in the first few minutes of play. Liston and Lynch were both out part of the game, but after the third play, the New Hampshire state team could not score Haverhill's score against teams from greater Boston have been far from close. It is supposed to record a few weeks ago by defeating Beverly high, 62 to 0.

INDIANS VS. CLIPPERS

The manager of the Clippers of Lawrence has posted his forfeit for a game with the Indians of Lowell at the Bunting grounds on Saturday afternoon. Manager Donnellan of the Indians put up his money at The Sun office Monday morning, and Mr. Harison of the Clippers lost no time in coming to Lowell and covering the long green. This is to guarantee the appearance of the teams. Each eleven will present its strongest lineup for the game. The record of the Indians is well known to all local followers, but for the benefit of those not familiar with the work of the Lawrence team, it may be said that it has played some of the strongest teams in this vicinity and has a fine list of victories to its credit. Several new men will be brought here Saturday, and the indications point to a red hot game.

PRINCETON MEN IN SCRIMMAGE

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 16.—Changing his plans in order to get a better line on his backfield men, Coach John Rush planned to send the Princeton varsity eleven through another scrimmage late today in preparation for the Yale football game on Saturday. Yesterday's hard drive in scrimmages left the men in a much improved condition both physically and in their knowledge of new variations in formations to be used in the contest against the New Haven team. The cold crisp weather today helped to put the men on edge. All the injured players are rounding into condition rapidly and Coach Rush will have plenty of good men on hand to put into the game if the regulars become doubtful. There is still some doubt whether Dave Tibbott will go into the contest. He is practicing kicking, but is not yet in condition to get into scrimmage.

OFF FOR CHICAGO

DANVERS, Nov. 16.—The football team of St. John's preparatory school with substitutes and members of the faculty to a total of 27, left last night for Chicago, where the eleven will meet De Paul academy on Saturday. St. John's team has not been defeated this season.

COACH JONES PLANS SOME CHANGES IN YALE LINEUP FOR PRINCETON GAME

MAYOR ASKS LOCKS AND CANALS TO PAY FOR CANAL BRIDGE

VON MACKENSEN'S ARMY IN RETREAT IN DOBRUDJA

MEN UP TO THEIR NECKS IN WATER AND MUD FIGHT DESPERATELY

The proprietors of the Locks and Canals on Merrimack river have been asked by Mayor O'Donnell to pay over an amount of money sufficient to reimburse the city of Lowell for its expenditure in the construction of the new canal bridge at Pawtucket falls. The mayor this morning sent a letter to the above named parties, asking them to confer with the city engineer and go over the cost figures. The letter:

November 16, 1916.

Proprietors of the Locks and Canals on Merrimack River, Lowell, Massachusetts.

Gentlemen:

As you are aware, the city of Lowell has practically completed the construction of the bridge over the canal in School street, just below the Pawtucket bridge. Those of us who have given the matter thought and study believe that your company should bear the cost of the construction of the canal bridge. I believe it to be my duty, therefore, to call your attention to the situation and to ask that you pay over an amount of money sufficient to reimburse the city of Lowell for its expenditure on this new canal bridge, which you will admit was a matter of public convenience and necessity.

As to the amount that you should contribute, that may be ascertained by having your engineer confer with the city engineer and go over the cost figures.

Field Marshal von Mackensen's army in the Rumanian province of Dobrudja is in retreat, the Petrograd war office announced today, burning villages as it falls back.

Increasing pressure by the Russo-Rumanian army in Dobrudja, which rallied after its severe defeat by von Mackensen last month, has been in evidence for several days. Bucharest reported a further advance yesterday, towards the important Tchernavoda-Constanza railroad, which the Teutonic allies captured in their drive. Berlin today entered a denial of the Rumanian claim and in its report on the Dobrudja campaign, chronicled only encounters between advanced detachments.

Fighting in the Somme region of northern France shows little diminution in intensity with attack and counter attack following swiftly.

British Advance Halted

The British advance in the Ancre region seems to have halted, London announcing only artillery activity during the night. Berlin, however, reports heavy attacks by the British yesterday, notably one on the village of Grandcourt, which is declared to have been broken down. The successes against the French scored by the Germans north of the Somme yesterday are reported by Berlin today. They consisted, according to the statement, in the capture by house to house fighting, of the eastern section of the village of St. Pierre-Vaast, where the French were manning the German positions in the St. Pierre-Vaast wood and of French trenches on the northern edge of this wood.

For their part, the French reacted against the Germans south of the Somme near Chaubert, where a German counter attack was announced yesterday to have wrested a part of the village of Pressoir from French possession. The French recaptured this ground last night. Paris announces in today's official bulletin.

Invasion of Rumania Continues

The invasion of Rumania is continuing successfully, Berlin announces, although increasing resistance apparently is being encountered by Gen. von Falkenhayn's forces along the Wallachian border, the tenacious defense of the Rumanians being mentioned. Nevertheless, progress is claimed for the Teutonic forces along the Rotherburn and Saurauk pass roads, with the capture of more than 1200 prisoners.

Allied Successes in Macedonia

In Macedonia, the entente allies are winning further successes in their campaign for Monastir. In their flanking movement on the east, they have advanced far into the Cerna river bend region, to within a few miles of the town, forcing the German-Bulgarian forces back and menacing the lines of the Teutonic allies on the plain to the south, where the French and Russians are making substantial progress, now being reported by Paris as within four miles of Monastir. The Germans and Bulgarians admit withdrawals in the Cerna river region.

FRENCH AND RUSSIAN WITHIN FOUR MILES OF MONASTIR

PARIS, Nov. 16, noon.—French and Russian troops on the Macedonian front are now within four miles of Monastir.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Telegraphing from the headquarters of the French army at Saloniki, under date of Nov. 15, the correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Co. says:

"Yesterday, the French, Russian and Italian forces operating to the west of the river Cerna attacked the enemy's lines during a rainstorm. Despite strenuous opposition, the French captured the whole system of defense around Kenall, which also fell into French hands.

"Fighting at some places was very desperate, the men being up to their necks in water and mud.

"During the night, the enemy counter-attacked, recovering a portion of the trenches, but this morning, he abandoned the whole of his front line, retiring upon the Bistrica river."

EXPLOSION ON RUSSIAN SHIP KILLS 150

The case of John H. Harrington against Dennis A. Long, for alleged libel on 27 counts was given to the jury this morning in the superior court at Cambridge by Judge Chase, who made his charge to the jury yesterday afternoon at the close of the session. The argument of Dennis J. Murphy for the defense was made early in the forenoon, and of J. Gilbert Hill, for the plaintiff immediately after the noon recess. The charge made by Judge Chase was a clear explanation of the law of libel, with special reference to its application in this case. Yesterday was the third day of the trial, but there was little testimony presented.

Frederick Freeman was the only witness called by the defense. He testified that he has dealt with printing machinery for many years and that he recently visited The Sun, printing plant.

He testified that he found seven linotype machines and was asked as to their market value but Mr. Hill objected, asking to be shown the qualifications of the witness before he be permitted to testify as an expert.

Questioned by Mr. Murphy, the witness said that he does a gross business of $10,000 yearly.

He gave his estimates as to the value of different machines now in operation in the plant.

He said the press was worth about $15,000.

Questioned by Mr. Hill:

When did you make this examination?

Three weeks ago.

How long did you stay?

About two hours.

How much attention did you give to the press?

About half an hour.

And part of that time you talked with the foreman?

Yes.

How long were you in the composing room?

About an hour.

Did you make a particular study of each machine?

No, I did not study any machine especially. I looked them all over and saw they were in good condition.

What is the biggest price you ever received for a printing press?

Would you give the prices you named for the various machines?

I could not afford to. If I did, I

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSIONER MCHORD THREATENS DRASTIC ACTION

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 16.—Commenting upon the apparent failure of several carriers to fully observe informal instructions for the return of foreign coal cars to the owning roads, Commissioner C. C. McChord of the interstate commerce commission served notice today that continued laxity in this connection would result in drastic action.

"The commission," said Commissioner McChord, "does not want to do anything drastic. It has preferred to achieve its object through agreement with the carriers, but it seems that this method is not meeting with success, and I am less sanguine than I was a few days since that efforts along this line will be successful. The railroads do not seem to trust each other. They do not want to take each other's word."

"If the commission is forced to take drastic measures it will be done and I will serve notice now that I am doing issuing informal proclamations and that the next instructions you will get, unless those already given are complied with, will be in the form of formal orders from the full commission."

PREDICTS A SPLENDID MERCHANT MARINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Predictions of a "splendid" American merchant marine as a result of the world war, the federal reserve act and shipping legislation were made here today by Stevenson Taylor, president of the society of naval architects and marine engineers, in a speech marking the opening of the 24th annual meeting of the organization.

The United States, he said, was making rapid strides in shipbuilding, whereas between 1910 and 1914 this country produced only 57 per cent, or 253,000 tons, as against Great Britain's 69 per cent, of the average annual world's production of 2,740,000 tons. Mr. Taylor declared Great Britain in 1915 will produce 1,269,000 tons and the United States 865,000, an increase of 14 per cent. for Great Britain and about 53 per cent. for the United States over the figures for 1915.

American ship yards, the speaker said, are building 1,500,000 tons of steel ships and 50,000 tons of wooden vessels to be completed within two years. One-third of them are for foreign nations. To September last, he said, 195 foreign built ships with a tonnage of 612,842 were admitted to American registry.

WOMEN TO "MAN" PARIS CARS

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Motorwomen on the Paris street railways will soon be a reality. Prefect of Police Laurent has issued an order authorizing the employment of women. They will first undergo training and then be placed on lines in the city where traffic is lightest.

Women are now also replacing baggage-men at some of the railroad stations. Although the baggage they are compelled to carry sometimes is exceedingly heavy the women are fulfilling their duties uncomplainingly.

HELD TEACHERS' INSTITUTE TODAY

John Engle and Agnes Flaherty were arraigned before Judge Enright in police court this morning on a complaint charging them with the larceny of a silk dress, valued at $15, the property of the Frankel-Goodman Corp., 243 Central street. According to the police the defendants have records and their method of stealing goods from stores while rather old, has not been worked in this city for a long time.

About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Engle and the Flaherty girl with two other men entered the Frankel-Goodman place and while one of the men was talking to a clerk the others were looking at clothing.

After the quartet had left the store it was found that a silk dress was missing and suspicion rested upon those who had been in the store. Word

OLD AGE PENSION AND HEALTH INSURANCE

About 50 people, including a delegation of women from the Lowell guild, attended the public hearing held in the aldermanic chamber at city hall, before the special commission on social insurance, last evening. The commission is composed of two members of the senate, one of whom is chairman, four members of the house of representatives and three outsiders appointed by the governor. The members of the commission present at last evening's hearing were as follows: Senator Farnsworth, chairman; Senator Wood, Rep. Catheron, Wendell G. Thore, Miss Edna L. Spencer and Mr. Meade. At the close of the hearing, it was found that the majority of those present favored non-contributory old-age pensions and a broadening of the scope of health insurance.

The hearing was called to order at 8 o'clock by Chairman Farnsworth, who told how and why the commission was created and explained the purpose of the hearing. It was explained that there were two insurance plans to be considered, the contributory and the non-contributory, although some claim that any system is contributory inasmuch as the people must pay the pension in the last analysis.

Thomas Feidstein of Boston, was one of the speakers and he informed the commission that although a resident of the Hub, he came to Lowell some time ago for the purpose of investigating working conditions in Lowell, and accordingly he has secured employment in a local mill. He said his weekly earnings are below $10 and in order to have both ends meet, he does his own cooking on a gas stove in his room. He said he does not believe in special commissions which feed from the state crib, although he was a recent candidate for public office. "In the mill and everywhere I go," he said, "I talk old-age pension with those I come in contact with, and I find that the general opinion is for a non-contributory system."

Richard Sykes wished to be registered as being opposed to the system and in the course of his remarks said he has been an employee of a mill for over 50 years, starting in at $7.50 a week. He said: "I have raised a family and managed to save a dollar or two and acquire some real estate. I believe if people were not leading such a high life during their early years, they could save enough to take care of them after they retire from active work. I have about $10,000 in property despite the fact that my wife has been ill for several years. This past year, I have noticed that girls in the mills have been earning anything from $10 to $25 a week. Those people have the same opportunity I had to live frugally and save money, and I don't believe I should be forced to contribute to the support of any man or woman who has been in good health and worked for years. The only solution is an 8-hour day, three shifts, with a law to force every able bodied man to work, and in this manner you will find that the pauper institutions conducted by the cities and state will not be so well filled."

"Can you separate yourself from the community?" asked Miss Spencer. "No, I don't know as I could," Mr. Sykes answered several questions and then stated he believed that when a man reached the age of 50 and meets with reverses, the state should come to his relief as is done in England, and he said he believed proper aid should be given those who have been sober and good patriotic citizens. The next speaker was William E. Sproule, who said he is 42 years of age, married and has two children. He wanted to go on record as favoring the old age pensions. He said although he is earning fairly good money he is hardly able to make both ends meet. He termed his wage as a "stomach wage," but he admitted that his condition is far better than that of half of the people of this country. He favored the non-contributory system.

The last speaker was Benjamin Staveley, who said in England old couples are kept together and they get 10 shillings for pension. He said the thought that he and his wife might be separated in their old age has shortened their days. At this point the hearing was taken in favor of the non-contributory system and more than half of the attendance stood up.

The hearing was then declared closed and the matter of health insurance was taken up. Miss Clara E. Holland of the Lowell guild said that in the past three months she would have assisted 258 families where there is insurance carried by the Metropolitan Insurance Co. In 198 other families treatment has been given and in 78 families full payment has been received. In 129 cases there has been only part or no pay given and in 37 families no money has been paid whatsoever. Miss Holland favored the passage of some legislation which will enable persons who put aside a small part of their earnings to get proper care in case of sickness or injury.

In reply to a question from Lawrence Cummings the chairman of the commission said hearings had been held in Boston and the commission had collected much data relative to organizations which collect weekly stipends from the government. Mr. Cummings said he believed much good would be derived if the insurance commissioners were brought into conference with the special committee. He said he wants to have the people so far as they are able, take care of themselves. "If men or women through no fault of their own, meet with misfortune, then they should not be cast aside and made paupers or else driven to poverty," said Mr. Cummings.

Dr. Francis R. Mahoney was the last speaker and his remarks had to do with the relation of health insurance to the workman's compensation act. He said many cases come under the act, which properly should come under health insurance and he cited a few cases. The doctor concluded by saying that in order to successfully continue the workman's compensation act it is necessary to broaden the scope of social insurance. The commission returned to Boston last evening and today is holding hearings in Fall River.

THE BRITISH REPLY

England refuses to back down on her blacklist of firms in America with which she forbids her subjects to trade. Sir Edward Grey writes a lengthy reply to the American note and seems to make out a strong case in justification of refusing to trade with concerns known to be in sympathy with the powers with which England is at war and whose places, according to this note, have been made bases of supply for German cruisers. Here is a significant declaration from the British reply:

"It is common knowledge that German business establishments in foreign countries have been not merely centres of German trade, but active agents for the dissemination of German political and social influence and for the purpose of espionage. In some cases they have been used as bases of supply for German cruisers and in other cases as organizers and paymasters of miscreants employed to destroy by foul means factories engaged in making, or ships engaged in carrying supplies required by the allies.

"Such operations have been carried on in the territory even of the United States itself, and I am bound to observe, what I do not think will be denied, that no adequate action has yet been taken by the government of the United States to suppress breaches of neutrality of this particular criminal kind, which I know that they are the first to discontinue and deplore."

That is a charge of breaches of neutrality by American citizens without any move on the part of the United States to provide a remedy. This no doubt has reference to the numerous explosions in munitions factories, in ships loaded with munitions for the allies and in other cases.

The United States government has done all in its power to discover the perpetrators of these crimes, but without much success. The evidence by which some culprits were convicted showed pretty clearly that there were certain miscreants in this country engaged in that business. These crimes were breaches of neutrality for which the United States cannot be held responsible, for the reason that so far as the department of justice could run down the criminals they were arrested and punished or else deported.

The contention of Viscount Grey is, that England as a sovereign state has a right to so direct the trade of her subjects that it will not increase the resources of the nations with which she is at war and thereby tend to prolong the struggle. On the other hand the government of the United States has a right to protect its citizens against discrimination, provided the charges made against those named on the blacklist cannot be substantiated. Otherwise, it would appear, the task would be hopeless. On which government does the burden of proof lie? That appears to be an important question to be threshed out later but on which the solution of the difficulty may finally depend.

SLEEPLESS STUDENTS

There is a great demand for an eight hour day all over this country and part of the reason on which it is urged is, that the workers may have eight hours for work, eight hours for sleep and eight for doing as they please. At Harvard university at the present time, there is an inquiry into the number of hours sleep a student should have in order to do his best work. Too much sleep, it is said, makes a dull head, while too little is even worse. The Harvard authorities, it appears, find that a certain proportion of the students do not sleep enough and the students themselves are in favor of less than eight hours for slumber. The authorities are beginning to find that many of the students are unable to do their best work from lack of sleep. Whether they burn too much of the midnight oil or engage in nightly carousals is not shown, but the "night owl" is not an unknown character among the students of unlimited means. What is true of Harvard in this respect is true of all colleges where the students are their own masters after lecture hours.

DEMONETIZING GOLD

The proposition to demonetize gold in the interest of European nations that are not likely to be able to pay their debts in that medium, will not be popular in this country. The presidential campaign of 1896 was fought on the issue of establishing the monetary ratio of 16 to 1 for silver and gold in this country has changed the standard for our money. At that time it was necessary because gold was scarce and silver was plenty; but the great increase in the production of gold since that time has changed the situation entirely, so that those who favored bimetalism then would probably oppose it today. Moreover, England then held the greater part of the gold supply of the world. Today the United States holds more perhaps than any two of the greatest nations, the latter having had to pay out their stock for expenditures in the war. The United States conducted its transactions with the countries at war on a gold basis and expects to get paid in money of equal value.

MEXICAN COMMISSION

That is rather startling news that comes from Atlantic City to the effect that the chairman of the Mexican commission has backed down on the agreement made with two American representatives endeavoring to assist Mexico in formulating a plan that will restore normal conditions along the border, if not throughout that unhappy country. The commission as a whole had agreed upon a plan and expected no further question as to its adoption, but the chairman went to Philadelphia, where he conferred with a Mexican official. When he returned, he refused to agree to the details of the plan and hence there is a possibility that the whole undertaking may be abandoned by the American representatives, leaving the Mexican question in as big a muddle as ever. It would be interesting to know just what influence was used to turn the plant chairman of the commission from his concurrence in the plan previously adopted.

TURNING OUT DOPE FIENDS

The charge that certain Boston doctors are making dope fiends in large numbers is quite alarming. Luxurious drug parlors are found equipped in the fashionable district in the Back Bay and it is said that one physician engaged in this business has written from 160 to 175 prescriptions a day. To degrade the medical profession in such a manner is a high crime in itself, but to start so many people on the downward path as drug fiends is still worse. These doctors catered only to wealthy people as may be judged from the fact that each prescription cost $2.

The district attorney of Boston will accomplish a most laudable work if he puts an end to this wholesale manufacture of dope fiends and sends the guilty doctors to jail.

AMERICAN U-BOAT

While the feat of the German submarines in crossing the Atlantic is being commented upon as unique, it may be of interest to state that a U-boat has been built at the Fore River shipyards at Quincy capable of a speed of 15.36 knots an hour on the surface with a cruising radius of 3000 miles. The boat has been built for Spain but still better will be built for the United States under the direction of the strategy board made up of the greatest inventors in the world.

FAKE SOLICITORS

The Boston chamber of commerce has done good work in stopping the appeals for fake charities. One of the impostors shown up was soliciting funds to purchase wooden limbs for French and English soldiers. The fake charity solicitor is found in every community, finding a sufficient number of easy victims to make his business profitable. There have been many of them here in Lowell and some which the Boston authorities hunted down.

It is to be regretted that so little interest was shown in the hearing by the Social Insurance commission at city hall last night on the question of finding a means of protecting the wage earner in case of sickness and in old age. The subject is new, of course, and the public had rather short notice. The matter is one that will engage the attention of citizens and legislators in the future although public sentiment at the present time is opposed to extending the pension system for any class.

Now that we are on the verge of cold weather, as usual a great many will be found wearing unsuitable clothing with the results that colds and other ailments will follow. Safety first and preparedness are important considerations at this season.

And the returns show, despite the wall from republican sources in half of the border states, that the voters of those states had more faith in a democratic administration than in a republican.

Seen and Heard

The hardest thing in the world to recover when once lost is friendship.

There are some women of 60 who are much more fascinating than some girls of 20.

You may say what you will about fat and old, but you will notice that the fat man always wants the lion's share.

Judging from the display of photographs and home made bouquets on their campaign cards the candidates are on pretty good terms with themselves.

We have congressmen and a congresswoman but the old congress shoe has gone by the board with the exception of a few pairs down in Lawrence where girls wear wooden stockings.

How many people know what the state flag of Massachusetts looks like? Do you? Well here is a description of it. It is of white silk, with the state coat of arms on one side and on the other side a blue shield with a representation of a green pine tree. The entire flag is five feet in length and four and one-half in width. This flag was adopted in 1885.

Comforting Knowledge

Sir David Henderson, director general of military aeronautics, possesses a vein of grim humor.

"Don't be nervous," he once remarked to a novice in the art of flying, who showed some hesitation while preparing for his first flight. "Don't be nervous man, you'll come down again. There is no known instance of an aeroplane not alighting."

Duels in Greenland

In Greenland when one man has been insulted by another, the adversaries each choose a satire in verse. This each man recites to his household until the servants and the women know it by heart. Then a place of meeting is appointed. The two men, the insulted and the offender, the offender and the offender's wife, and each recites his poem. His friends and servants form a chorus. Each man tries hard to raise the laugh against his adversary. Each man speaks in turn, whipping the enemy with epigrams and quips, and after two hours of falling words, the victor gives the victory to him of the two adversaries who has amused the whole assembly most.

Shooting Stars

"Look for shooting stars tonight!" said the Boston Post Monday, but it was of little use to try to follow out the advice, unless one went to moving picture shows where the stars were indulging in pistol play. But the reason for the Post's advice was that Nov. 13 is the most famous date in history for the special phenomenon. Monday was the anniversary of three great "showers" of falling stars, the first struck terror into men's hearts, partly because they came on the 13th of the month, and partly because many people declared that the fulfillment was at hand of the description of the world's end in the Apocalypse. The stars of heaven fell on the earth, and as the trees cast their untimely leaf, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. The "star rain" of Nov. 13, 1833, was one of the events which are recalled with such other unique phenomena as the freezing of Boston harbor, the great yellow day, etc.

Claims He Almost Gave Up Hope

William S. Chapman of 55 Mount Grove St. Tells How He Suffered 20 Years

In a recent interview, The Plant Juice Man, who has his headquarters at Dows, The Druggists, in Merrimack Square, said:

"We have introduced Plant Juice into a number of great American cities and everywhere it has met with tremendous success. Plant Juice is purely an herbal preparation and is proving to be the greatest ever produced. Once the public of a city tests it, they know its merits, and great demand for it follows. It is particularly a tonic for city people, where modern modes and customs of life lead to various forms of debility. To nervous, stomach, blood and kidney troubles—in fact to a general run down condition. Plant Juice tones up as does no other preparation. It gives immediate relief and lasting results. All forms of stomach, liver, kidney, trouble and blood disorders are relieved by Plant Juice. It is a true specific for general debility and organic weakness in men and women, and is sure to bring a return of buoyant spirits, cheerfulness and good health.

Selecting at random from a mass of written testimonials is that of Mr. William S. Chapman, who lives at No. 55 Mount Grove street, a well known carpenter who has been a resident of Lowell for the past 35 years and has many friends and acquaintances. He stated:

"I had been troubled with stomach, kidney, blood trouble and constipation for the past 20 years and had almost given up hope of ever getting better. Most everything I ate would distress me. I was debilitated with gas, which gave me constant pain, could not sleep at night, had headaches, was very dizzy at times, and had terrible pains in my back and had lost all over my body. My tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth continually. I became very nervous and restless, felt tired all the time and had no ambition or energy to attend to my work. Finally I started to take Plant Juice, and I feel better, and it has greatly relieved my stomach, and the pains from which I suffered; I can sleep well and feel better in every way. I am glad to recommend Plant Juice to others."

The Plant Juice Man is at Dows, The Druggists, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

TWO LONG YEARS HE SUFFERED

"Fruit-a-tives" Made Him Feel As If Walking On Air

OAKLAND, Nov. 26th. 1914.
"For over two years, I was troubled with Constipation, Drowsiness, Lack of Appetite and Headaches. One day I saw your sign which read 'Fruit-a-tives make you feel like walking on air.' This appealed to me, so I decided to try a box. In a very short time, I began to feel better, and now I feel fine. I have a good appetite, relish everything I eat, and the headaches are gone entirely. I recommend this pleasant fruit medicine to all my friends."

comes to every girl to stay close indoors, and protect her comfort from the weather. She likes to sit by the fireplace and read, to work about the warm kitchen, or sew or crochet in the living room, by the glowing heater, when it is raining and blowing and cold on the road.

Fortunate, indeed, is the girl who has some task that must take her out of doors a certain amount each day, for she is the one who will exercise enough. A walk to school, to work, or even after cows is a thing. For she will keep roses cheeks, a trim figure, and a bright eye, while her sister who sits indoors will come through the winter with a pasty complexion and too much flesh.

Get out of doors all through November and the following months. Make it your business to get out every day, rain or shine, and walk, ride or run in the open air. Do not coddle yourself. Begin preparing now to leave your window wide open at night, whatever the weather may be, my dear, whatever the weather may be.

Be an outdoors girl this winter. Keep young, strong, healthy and hearty. There is nothing better than a daily tramp in the fresh air to keep your digestive system in order. Your skin fresh and soft, and your eyes bright happy.—Annie Frances in Farm Life.

The Day's Result
Is anybody happier because you passed this way?
Does anyone remember that you spoke to him today?
This day is almost over and its tolling time is through.
Is there anyone to enter now a kind word of you?

Did you give a cheerful greeting to the friend who came along your way?
Or a kind word of "howdy" and then vanish in the throng?
Were you selfish, pure and simple as you rushed along your way?
Or is someone might grateful for a deed you did today?

Can you say tonight in parting with the day that slipped away?
That you helped a single brother of the many that you passed?
Is a single heart rejoicing over what you did or said?
Does a man whose hopes were fading now with courage look ahead?

Did you waste the day or use it, was it well or poorly spent?
Did you leave a trail of kindness or a scar of discontent?
As you close your eyes in slumber do you think that God will say: You have earned one more tomorrow by the work you did today?

TARNOWSKI NAMED AS AUSTRIAN AMBASSADOR

COUNT TARNOWSKI

The date for the departure of the new Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States, Count Adam Tarnowski von Tarnow, for Washington has been fixed, but he is not likely to leave Sofia, where he is stationed as Austro-Hungarian minister, for three weeks. Count Tarnowski is now at Sofia winding up his affairs there. Before he starts for the United States arrangements for his safe conduct through the British spheres must be made.

That Count Tarnowski is going to Washington pleases all circles in Vienna and at Budapest, as he is regarded as the man best suited for the post, apart from the fact that he is one of the most able diplomats in the monarchy. The newspapers in commenting on his appointment generally express satisfaction that the Washington post is to be filled again and the hope that the new ambassador will succeed in fostering in the United States not only good relations between Austria-Hungary and this country, but also the right impression concerning Austria-Hungary's position and objectives in the war. ROOSEVELT BIRTHPLACE TO BE TORN DOWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The old four-story house in Twentieth street in which Col. Theodore Roosevelt was born, Oct. 27, 1858, is to be torn down to make room for a modern business place, it was announced today. Several years ago the Roosevelt Home club was organized with $1 membership fee to preserve the building as a place of historic interest, but owing to the lapse of payments on a mortgage the property was recently sold under foreclosure.

EMPLOYERS OF 7,000,000 IN NEW ORGANIZATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Formation of the National Industrial Conference board with 12 of the most important industrial organizations of the country in its membership, as a "clearing house of information," in the proposed study of problems confronting manufacturers of the United States, was announced here yesterday at a meeting of the National Founders' association, an organization of iron manufacturers.

Frederick P. Fish, banker of Boston, is chairman and Magnus W. Alexander of West Lynn, Mass., manager of the new organization. The industrial bodies which have joined the board are the National Founders' association, National Metal Trades association, National Council for Industrial Defense, National Association of Manufacturers, National Erectors' association, National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, National Association of Wool Manufacturers, Silk Association of America, National Typothetae and Franklin Clubs of America, American Paper and Pulp association and Rubber Club of America.

Membership in these organizations is said to number 15,000 employers, giving work to approximately 7,000,000 persons and representing about $5,000,000,000 of capital.

"Heretofore to a substantial extent," said Mr. Alexander, "each manufacturer has studied only the problem directly affecting himself, ignoring the fact that all industry is inter-related and that there is a vital need for co-operative action and united effort. The new board will bring many more. These must be studied and solved."

"The conference board will be a clearing house of information. Its purpose will be to analyze and present the essential elements in the situation, suggest methods and inspire united and intelligent action. Industry in this country must have the sympathetic support of the public. It must have the co-operation of the government and it must act intelligently and definitely on its own account."

Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank, asserted a new board has been called into existence in response to public sentiment "demanding and needing fullness and accuracy of information affecting its vital interests."

BURGLAR CAPTURED BY HAVERHILL WOMAN

HAVERHILL, Nov. 16.—After a desperate hand-to-hand fight with a burglar, whom she found in her home on her return from a visit to a neighbor's house, Mrs. Cora E. Laing, wife of Raphael M. Laing of 3 Summer street, last evening subdued the man and held him until passing by, in answer to her screams, came to her assistance and held him for arrest.

Frank Barnes, 30 years old, claiming to live at 131 Common street, Lawrence, was arrested, charged with breaking and entering and larceny.

Mrs. Laing soon after supper paid a brief visit to a neighbor. When she returned, she saw Barnes, standing in the sitting room with her handbag in his grasp. She asked why he was there and what he wanted.

The man offered to return to her the contents of the handbag, among which was some jewelry. For answer, Mrs. Laing seized him by the arms and began to scream for help.

The young man tossed her about from side to side the two struggled and the man was nearing the end of the kitchen that connected with a door.

The woman locked this door and then sprang between the man and the only other means of exit, screaming all the while. Harry W. Bailey, assistant city engineer, and Clyde R. Ramlett, passing at the time, heard the cries and rushed to the house.

SEEK TO ENJOIN STRIKERS

Four Nashua Firms Ask Injunctions Against Molders to Prevent Interference With Employees

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 16.—Capital in its dispute with labor has resorted to the method of injunction for the first time in the history of Nashua.

Frederick W. Mansfield, recently democratic nominee for governor in Massachusetts, is one of the counsel for labor.

More than 100 of the striking iron molders of this city appeared in the superior court yesterday morning, in answer to summonses to show cause why they should not be enjoined from interfering with men employed at the Co-operative foundry, the White Mountain Freezer company, the Flat-Machine company, and William Highton & Sons.

Judge Pike, after conference with Mr. Mansfield and ex-Mayor William H. Barry, counsel for the respondents, and County Solicitor John R. Flynn, representing the complainants, put the hearing over till next Wednesday.

URGE HEAVY PENALTY FOR CAR DELAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The American Railway association, at its semi-annual meeting here yesterday, to consider car shortage, adopted a per diem charge ranging from 15 cents to $1.25 for each freight car which any one road shall withhold from another and decided to impose a demurrage penalty on any road which violates the association rules relating to car shortage. There were 253 members present, representing about 300,000 miles of road.

The association also appointed a committee to confer in Louisville on Friday with Interstate Commerce Commissioner McChord, with a view to effecting co-operation with the government upon car shortage. The men appointed were C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central; H. E. Byram, vice president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; G. L. Peck, fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania lines; and W. T. Rowe, president of the Central railroad of New Jersey.

It is the plan of the railroads to make the new demurrage rules effective December 1, assuming the approval of the Interstate Commerce commission. The new rules are designed by the association to provide exceptionally drastic penalties against railroads detaining on their lines freight cars belonging to another railroad.

Following are the demurrage penalties proposed, which the association hopes, with promptness, the prompt unloading of freight cars by shippers. After the expiration of free time, $2 for the first day, $3 for the second day,

$4 for the third day and $5 for the fourth and each succeeding day.

The resolution provides that a road will be penalized $5 for every car which, owned by another road, it may, upon reloading, divert in any direction except the one which would take it back toward the home road.

The per diem minimum charge of 45 cents approximates the cost of ownership of equipment, it was stated, and the maximum of $1.25 represents this cost, plus the net earnings of the car. The principle of variable per diem will be based upon car and traffic conditions, with a special committee to determine when the per diem should vary.

PRES. GOMPERS TALKS ON ADAMSON LAW

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 16.—President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor today received telegrams from the heads of the four railroad brotherhoods saying they expected to address the federation at an convention next Monday, Tuesday on the 8-hour law. The belief seemed to be general among the federation delegates today that the convention would take action to co-operate with their brotherhoods in insisting on enforcement of the law.

While Gompers would not commit himself as advocating a strike by the railroad men if the law is not made effective, he asked the newspapermen why there should not be a strike if the law is not enforced. Vice-President Duncan and O'Connell expressed themselves in favor of the railroad men waiting a reasonable length of time, in the event of an injunction for the United States supreme court to take up the case.

HUNTER KILLED FOR DEER

ROXBURY, Me., Nov. 16.—Clarence Campbell of Roxbury Mills while hunting here yesterday forenoon with Charles Duce, was accidentally shot by Harry Marston of Mexico, Me., who mistook him for a deer.

The charge entered Campbell's side and he lived only five minutes. Dane and Marston hurriedly summoned aid, but to no avail. Dr. W. T. Rowe of Rumford, medical examiner, was called. The body was brought out of the woods this afternoon.

Mr. Campbell was 40 and leaves a wife and two young children.

LOWELL PRIESTS AT DEDICATORY AND ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES IN WASHINGTON

The new O.M.I. scholasticate recently created in Washington, D.C., was dedicated this morning and the event had a double significance, for it also marked the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Oblate order. The dedication ceremonies, which were held this forenoon were attended by a large number of priests representing dioceses from all over the country, and among them were several local clergymen, including Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O.M.I., provincial of the order and under whose direction the new building was erected; Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O.M.I., and others.

The double exercises were held at a solemn high mass celebrated in the scholastic chapel at 10 o'clock by Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, D.D., rector of the Catholic university of Washington. His Eminence Cardinal James

$50,000 FOR POOR CHILDREN

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 16.—Nearly $50,000 was raised on the so-called "Barnes Day" (Children's day) in Stockholm, a city of less than 100,000 inhabitants. The institution is an annual one, started some years ago to raise a fund to send poor children to the country for a vacation in the summer time. Cowboys and cowgirls, in chaps, sunbonnets and flannel shirts, rode about the streets bearing contribution boxes. Boys and girls in fantastic costumes, bagpack, loads of merry young people in varied guise, automobiles carrying popular actors and actresses all made it their business to see that nobody escaped without contributing and added greatly to the day's proceeds.

MUSHROOMS SOAR

BERLIN, November.—For no explainable reason except speculation mushrooms have soared in price to such a height that the authorities are being called on to step in, establish maximum prices, or take some similar measure to keep them within reach of the common people.

This season mushrooms are so plentiful that the price paid by the wholesaler to those who gather them ranges from 20 to 40 pennings a pound, even at this low rate, families during the summer made from 50 to 100 marks a day by making excursions into the country and picking as many mushrooms as they could carry.

Notwithstanding this superabundance of the plants has not tended in the slightest to keep the retail prices down. Today mushrooms sell at retail for from 110 to 125 pennings a pound.

PRINCETON FOOTBALL TIGER READY TO CLAW YALE BULLDOG ON GRIDIRON

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 16.—Princeton and Yale are now ready to renew their annual battle on the gridiron. This year's clash will be held at the Palmer stadium here Nov. 18. Earlier in the season the Tiger eleven was ruling favorite, but since Yale has displayed such brilliant football the outcome is a tossup. History tells us that, whether Yale or Princeton is weak, both teams seem to put up a great struggle when they clash on the gridiron. Harvard recently took Princeton into camp by a score of 3 to 0, and Brown took Yale into camp by a score of 21 to 6. According to Princeton experts, if the Tigers do not whip Yale this fall Nassau's sons will be astonished. The Tigers have practically the same team that was beaten at New Haven last year. Experience means a lot on the gridiron, so that the Tigers are well off in this respect. Experts say if Princeton had Tibbitt in the lineup against Harvard the result might have been different.

The Yale rush line, as well as the backfield, has displayed an eagerness to get into the thickest of battle that has been most pleasing to the coaches. The same caliber of fighting spirit that made former blue eleven the most formidable aggregations on the gridiron was apparent upon this feat alone New Haven is always willing to back its representatives in the conflict with Princeton. Layout shows some of the Yale-Princeton stars. ATTACK BLACKLIST

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 16, via London.—The Cologne Gazette, commenting on the British reply to the American note regarding blacklists, says: "Everything remains as before. England is mistress of the sea and whoever wants to carry on commerce can do so only with her permission and under her supervision. Is not this navalism a thousand times more complete and more oppressive than anything German militarism which really does not exist—is supposed to have done." The Gazette especially attacks Viscount Grey for mentioning submarine warfare as a justification for British predatory war. "We are treating vessels," it says, "exactly in accord with international law. Fact we sink them is solely the fault with England who has marked nearly everything as contraband. The American congress empowered the American president to take strong measures against British encroachments but Grey appears to think that there is no reason to fear that Mr. Wilson will make use of counter measures."

COLDEST IN 11 YEARS

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—Old Man Winter warmed up, on, to be precise, froze up to his job yesterday, arriving in the wee wee hours with a low temperature that hasn't been matched in 11 years. On Nov. 15, 1905, the minimum was 22. Yesterday's lowest record was 24 at 1 a. m., when the reading was 24; 24 at 3 and 4 in the afternoon was the maximum.

Included in the dispensation yesterday was a sprinkling of snow. And in the forecaster's opinion this first icy touch is to be an ephemeral mist.

ter, today, for snow flurries may occur either today and tomorrow and Jack Frost is likely to stick around through both days.

Snow was falling last night in New York city and in Cleveland and Toledo, but the remainder of the country was reporting fair, clear and cold weather.

At 10 last night the glass registered 10 above at Greenville, Me. New England's coldest corner at that hour.

ENGLAND MAY GO ON FOOD TICKETS

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, in parliament yesterday outlined the government's proposal for dealing with the food problem.

Mr. Runciman's speech had significance aside from its actual content as showing that the government is looking forward to protracted hostilities and foresees the necessity of timely measures for insuring the national food supply by an effective organization of national resources in a manner similar to that adopted in the enemy countries.

Mr. Runciman announced the imminent appointment of a food controller with full power over all departments concerned in food supplies, and immediate measures to restrict the luxuries of sugar, to prevent waste and the making of large profits in potatoes and milk, and to forbid the milling of pure white flour.

He said also that the government would ask new powers under the defense of the realm act to deal with all attempts to exploit public necessities.

These measures, Mr. Runciman explained, would be temporary, but if they were found insufficient it might become necessary to have recourse to food tickets.

All Parties Welcome Plan

The speech of the president of the board of trade was welcomed in all parts of the house. Sir Edward Carson, on behalf of the opposition, and George J. Wardle, for the laborites, agreed that the house was ready to grant the power asked without the formality of a bill.

Mr. Runciman also announced that the government intends to bring about the pooling of engineering resources in order to expedite shipbuilding.

Mr. Runciman added that steps would be taken to control imported flour and that orders would be issued forthwith, calling for milk contracts in order to limit the price. Runciman admitted the time had arrived when the government must regard the question of food supplies as a war problem, declaring that the strain the country would have to bear next year would be mainly in connection with the food supply.

To Prohibit Some Costly Foods

He saw no reason why at the end of the year the production of shipping for the preceding six months should not approach 500,000 tons. Announcing that he was making arrangements for a pooling of engineering effort on Tyne and elsewhere, Mr. Runciman said the government must "make the plunge" in this matter, for the provision of more merchant ships was most urgent.

He said the question of dispensing with some articles of food was under consideration and in this connection he mentioned elaborate and costly confectionery, concerning which a committee of the royal society had been advising the board of trade.

The retail prices of foodstuffs compared with a year ago have increased on an average of 27 per cent, says the report of the board of trade. They have increased 73 per cent, over prices before the war. The prices of sugar, eggs, fish and potatoes, however, are more than double the pre-war prices.

Of the total British tonnage of steam merchant shipping of 1000 tons and over at the beginning of the war, the net loss to Sept. 30, 1916, was slightly over 25 per cent. Thomas McNamara, financial secretary of the British admiralty, told a questioner today in the house. This, he said, included losses from all sources, whether war or marine risks.

Lords Stirred by U-Boat Work

The submarine issue came up in the house of lords this afternoon. Baron Sudeham invited the government to make a declaration in the nature of a "ton for ton" policy in behalf of Great Britain and her allies. He declared there was an uneasy feeling that the submarine menace was more serious than the authorities were willing to admit.

Admiral Lord Beresford said Great Britain had arrived at a serious crisis, calling for energy and foresight, because the house of commons and the press had been razzled by the most autocratic government since the time of Pharaoh.

"Had the blockade been properly enforced from the first," he asserted, "we should not have been faced by the submarine menace."

The Marquis of Crewe, lord president of the council, replied:

"It is useless to threaten to exact particular reparations in the terms of peace unless we are able to impose those terms by obtaining complete victory."

He said the difficulties in dealing with German submarine war on commerce had increased.

OFFER TO BAR TIPS

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—After careful and prolonged deliberation, the hotel and restaurant waiters of Boston have announced officially that they are willing to relinquish their time-honored and jealously guarded privilege of accepting tips from those they serve.

But they also announce that they will do this only if their employers will agree to raise their wages from $30 a month to $15 a week. This proposition was formally submitted yesterday to the Boston Hotel Men's association by John J. Kearney, head of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Local No. 34. The hotel men have taken the proposition under consideration.

WILSON THANKS WEST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—President Wilson expressed his gratitude to the people of the west for their support in the election in messages sent last night in reply to requests that he visit that section before congress opens. He said he would be unable to make the trip at present because of critical duties, but promised to go west later if possible.

EXAMPLES OF PAINTERS' ART IN LOWELL

Two beautiful and impressive examples of artistic and up-to-date painting and decorating that have recently been completed in Lowell are the interior of the Washington Savings Institution, formerly the Traders bank, on Middlesex street, and the exterior of the Bon Marche building, on Merrimack street. Both examples are the work of Dwyer & Co., painters and decorators, on Appleton street, and they have been freely and favorably commented on by the public.

The first impression one gets on entering the bank is one of brightness and light. This is largely due to the skillful selection and blending of colors as no sombre shades were used, excepting the warm mahogany tone of the woodwork which contrasts so well with the light walls and ceiling.

The panels in the ceiling are ivory white, outlined with the classic moldings in pure white. The Corinthian capitals of the supporting pillars are also delicately brought out in the pure white, and the large wall spaces are treated in grey buff. All of these tints are toned to the same subdued color note and they harmonize in creating an atmosphere of classic brightness in keeping with the character of the institution.

All the woodwork, including the new vestibule and the curved partition is treated in natural mahogany. Its warm browns and reds showing beautifully against the bright walls. At night, when the lights are on, the interior is so strikingly beautiful that many have stopped to admire it when passing.

Bon Marche Building

Another job of which the Dwyer company is justifiably proud is the exterior of the Bon Marche building on Merrimack street which has set a new standard for the buildings in that locality. The Bon Marche has been finished in buff, of the Colonial shade, giving the effect of the substantial and brick buildings that one sees in larger cities. This treatment has brought out the beautiful lines of the massive exterior, and there is artistic relief in the granite trim which completes the effect.

The broad band of decorative finish beneath the coping and above the windows of the top story has been given the granite finish and the same effect has been carried out in the sculptured medallions of lions' heads which are an attractive feature of the front. The present appearance of the Bon Marche adds considerably to the attractiveness of the street, and Mr. Dwyer says it was not by any means an easy task. Both examples referred to show the great possibilities of buildings that are brought up-to-date by the art of the progressive painter and decorator.

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Nov. 16.—A total of 138,526,297 revenue paying passengers were carried on the lines of the Bay State street railway company during the year ending June 30 last, according to its annual report filed with the public service commission. The average fare for each revenue-paying passenger was 4.812 cents, and including the transfer passengers the average fare was 4.283 cents.

The number of employees and others transported free was 7,040,863, the passengers cars of the company were operated a total of 31,028,304 miles, giving a revenue per mile of $0.135 cents. Freight, mail and express cars were operated 32,569 miles.

The company received a total of $9,770,693.33 from operation, a gain of $431,080.51 over the previous year; operating expenses were $7,682,070.45, an increase of $860,743.74, leaving a net operating revenue of $2,088,622.88, which was $1,669,223 less than the preceding year.

Through its illuminating department the company collected a revenue of $225,374.73, an increase of $26,997.04, and the expense of this department was $82,510.34, an increase of $6378.07, so that the net income was $142,864.39, or $20,617.97 more than the previous year.

Adding this department's income to the operating income, it is found that the company's net operating revenue was $2,231,603.27, or $409,051.26 less than for the year ending June 30, 1915. The company paid taxes as follows: On its property, $167,641.37; on its capital stock, $216,569.57; on its earnings, $222,309.29; and miscellaneous taxes, $2541.25, a total of $606,061.48, which was $44,319.09 less than for the previous year. FIGHT TAX ON ASTOR BABY

Mother, Mrs. Dick, Contends That $2544 Paid on Infant's $111,880 Income Was Not Justly Imposed

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Mrs. Madeline Force Dick, who formerly was Mrs. John Jacob Astor, was appointed by the federal district court yesterday as guardian ad litem of her infant son, John Jacob Astor, for the purpose of prosecuting a suit to recover income taxes imposed by the collector of internal revenue.

According to Mrs. Dick, the Astor baby was forced to pay $2544 for the year 1913 on the income from the $3,000,000 trust fund left by the late Col. John Jacob Astor, a victim of the Titanic disaster. The income from the trust fund, it was said, amounted in 1913 to $111,880, but none of it was devoted to the support, maintenance or education of the Astor baby. Part of this income, it was alleged, came from corporations which themselves were subject to the income tax law.

ELEVENS OF PENNSYLVANIA AND MICHIGAN
READY TO GIVE BATTLE AT ANN ARBOR

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 16.—The elevens of Michigan and Pennsylvania are ready for their annual gridiron battle which will take place on Perry field here Nov. 18. Although no championship title hinges on this result, widespread interest is being taken in the battle. According to the management, at least 20,000 people, ready to witness the contest. Since Michigan's defeat at the hands of Cornell last week, the eleven has been working hard to win the eleven into good shape. The Cornell players and shouters gave Michigan generous credit for playing great football on Nov. 11, and some of them did not hesitate to admit after it was over that the "Big Red team" was lucky to win. Michigan still has a chance to gain some recognition in the future by holding Pennsylvania a substantial beating. Yost says that "White and Blue" is a better team now than it was a few days ago, and he looks for the contest to be a hard fought and a record breaking crowd will probably attend.

The coming clash is attracting considerable interest not only in Lowell and Haverhill, but all along the Merrimack valley. The Lowell team is strong and despite the fact that its captain and star half back is on the injured list, the remainder of the team possesses sufficient pluck and is ready to go into the game prepared to give the Haverhill eleven a hard battle. Coach Conway is preparing for the game with great caution. In an endeavor to fill the loss sustained by Liston's absence, Arthur Lynch will undoubtedly be Lowell's star on the attack.

The Haverhill team is conceded to be slightly heavier than Lowell and therefore has this advantage. Lowell has opposed and defeated heavier teams than its own before this season, however, and the question of weight is not bothering the players much. The game is bound to be hard fought and a record breaking crowd will probably attend.

Haverhill high is a likely contender for the championship of the state. It has not lost a game all season, but was forced to accept a tie from Manchester last week. The score was 13-13. The Manchester eleven was the same team that beat Lowell by a 7 to 0 score by a "lucky" touchdown in the first few minutes of play. Liston and Lynch were both out part of the game, but after the third play, the New

Liston and Lynch were both out part of the game, but after the third play, the New England players and shouters gave Michigan generous credit for playing great football on Nov. 11, and some of them did not hesitate to admit after it was over that the "Big Red team" was lucky to win. Michigan still has a chance to gain some recognition in the future by holding Pennsylvania a substantial beating. Yost says that "White and Blue" is a better team now than it was a few days ago, and he looks for the contest to be a hard fought and a record breaking crowd will probably attend.

The coming clash is attracting considerable interest not only in Lowell and Haverhill, but all along the Merrimack valley. The Lowell team is strong and despite the fact that its captain and star half back is on the injured list, the remainder of the team possesses sufficient pluck and is ready to go into the game prepared to give the Haverhill eleven a hard battle. Coach Conway is preparing for the game with great caution. In an endeavor to fill the loss sustained by Liston's absence, Arthur Lynch will undoubtedly be Lowell's star on the attack.

The Haverhill team is conceded to be slightly heavier than Lowell and therefore has this advantage. Lowell has opposed and defeated heavier teams than its own before this season, however, and the question of weight is not bothering the players much. The game is bound to be hard fought and a record breaking crowd will probably attend.

Haverhill high is a likely contender for the championship of the state. It has not lost a game all season, but was forced to accept a tie from Manchester last week. The score was 13-13. The Manchester eleven was the same team that beat Lowell by a 7 to 0 score by a "lucky" touchdown in the first few minutes of play. Hampshire state team could not score. Haverhill's scores against teams from greater Boston have been far from close. It smashed a record a few weeks ago by defeating Beverly high, 65 to 0.

INDIANS VS. CLIPPERS

The manager of the Clippers of Lawrence has posted his forfeit for a game with the Indians of Lowell at the Bunting grounds on Saturday afternoon. Manager Lonnellan of the Indians put up his forfeit at the Sun office Monday morning, and Mr. Harrison of the Clippers lost no time in coming to Lowell and covering the long green. This is to guarantee the appearance of the teams. Each eleven will present its strongest lineup for the game. The record of the Indians is well known to all local followers, but for the benefit of those not familiar with the work of the Lawrence team, it may be said that it has played some of the strongest teams in this vicinity and has a long list of victories to its credit. Several new men will be brought here Saturday, and the indications point to a red hot game.

PRINCETON MEN IN SCRIMMAGE

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 16.—Changing his plans in order to get a better line on his backfield men, Coach John Rush planned to send the Princeton varsity eleven through another scrimmage late today in preparation for the Yale football game on Saturday. Yesterday's hard drive in scrimmage left the men in a much improved condition both physically and in their knowledge of new variations in formations to be used in the contest against the New Haven team. The cold crisp weather today helped to put the men on edge. All the injured players are rounding into condition rapidly and Coach Rush will have plenty of good men on hand to put into the game if the regulars become disabled. There is still some doubt whether Dave Tibbitt will get into the contest. He is practicing goal kicking, but is not yet in condition to get into scrimmage.

OFF FOR CHICAGO

DANVER, Nov. 16.—The football team of St. John's preparatory school, with substitutes and members of the faculty to a total of 27, left last night for Chicago, where the eleven will meet De Paul academy on Saturday. St. John's team has not been defeated this season.

COACH JONES PLANS SOME CHANGES
IN YALE LINEUP FOR PRINCETON GAME

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 16.—In view of the defeat of the Yale eleven by Brown last Saturday, Harvard now thinks itself reasonably sure of another victory over the blue. However, it should reflect on what might have happened if Brown and not Princeton had faced the crimson Nov. 11. The impression exists in well informed football circles that Brown would have whipped Harvard. The game was just such a test in which a fine runner like Pollard or Legore would have enjoyed a natural.

On the eve of its two big tests Yale certainly is in a bad fix. It expected a lot of trouble from Brown, which many leading scouts rate the best team in the east. However, the Yale board of strategy looked for a hard game with the blue. Evidently, some changes for the Princeton game, Harvard last Saturday, will be shifted,

BERLIN, Nov. 15, via London, Nov. 16.—Baron von Burián, the Austrian minister of foreign affairs, arrived in Berlin today accompanied by Prince Kuncellor von Meroy and Count Frederick Hays.

New York, as follows:

"Please send me a 'J. B. L. Cascade' for my wife and on for myself. I have been suffering without the Cascade, as it has done more for me than all the pills; in fact, it has made a young man of me.

"During time I was so bilious as to be auto-intoxicated, but I now use the Cascade twice a week, and feel like a different man.

"I am much pleased at your feeling the morning after taking an internal bath by means of the 'J. B. L. Cascade.' You will feel brisk, bright, energetic, and that everything is working right"—and it is.

PRICE ONE CENT

WILL ATTEND EVENING SCHOOL

The Polish Citizen's club of Centerville has started a movement to encourage the Polish residents of Lowell to attend the local evening schools. The young men are particularly desirous to take up this evening study so that they will be able to become citizens.

In order to create as much interest as possible in this movement, a mass meeting will be held in the Polish club headquarters in Colburn street on the evening of December 3. An entertainment and concert will be presented in connection with the meeting and a large attendance is expected. Some of the officers of the club will speak on citizenship and the opportunities afforded in the evening schools. The benefits of the latter will be explained. Rev. Fr. Ogonowski of the Polish church in High street has co-operated with the club and is doing his part to interest his parishioners in the evening schools. He has urged his people to attend the evening schools and take advantage of their courses.

There are already two classes for Polish speaking people in this city. One is in the Greenhalge school and the other in the Colburn school. Both classes are already largely attended but the principals have informed the officers of the Polish Citizens club that the classes will be enlarged or more added if an increase is shown in the attendance.

Another plan of the club is to prepare its prospective members for citizenship by conducting examinations in the club. There are at present about 150 registered voters in the club and 25 or more who are waiting for their second papers.

The committee in charge of the mass meeting on December 3 is as follows: Stephen Kival, Jacob Pelczar and Joseph Andzejewski.

THE MEXICAN-AMERICAN JOINT COMMISSION

INTEREST IN ATTITUDE OF LUIS CABRERA, CHAIRMAN OF MEXICAN BAND

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 16.—Interest in the session of the Mexican-American joint commission today was in learning what would be the attitude of Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican commission. During his absence at Philadelphia, Ignace, the other Mexican representative, virtually agreed with the American commission on the essential points of a plan of border control. They expressed confidence of the support of Mr. Cabrera notwithstanding the opposition offered by him on Tuesday, the last time he appeared in the conference.

Their optimism, however, was not shared by all those in touch with the conference early today. By a few of them it was regarded as not improbable that Mr. Cabrera might stand the way of agreement again although his preparations have been made for reducing the plan to writing and Mr. Bonillas and Mr. Paul appeared confident another hitch would be avoided. Mr. Cabrera remained non-committal.

WOMEN'S LABOR LAW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Constitutionality of the women's labor law of New York state was presented in a case before the supreme court today, particularly as to validity of a clause prohibiting employment of married women at night. The state's investigation followed the state factory investigation. It was once held unconstitutional by the New York court of appeals and later was sustained.

In the present case the Charles Schweinhart Press, a corporation, appeals from conviction of employing married women at night in its printing plant. At issue is the law as a deprivation of liberty and property without due process of law.

The law provides that "no female shall be employed in any factory before 6 a. m. or after 9 p. m. or for more than 10 hours a day; except to make a shorter day on Saturday; or for more than 60 hours a week."

FOOTBALL SONGS COMPOSED BY SCHOOL GIRL

Great interest is being demonstrated by the students of the Lowell high school over the big football game to be played with Haverhill high in Haverhill Saturday. Mass meetings at which the songs and cheers are rehearsed are held in the school hall daily and there is no limit to the enthusiasm of the cheering squads. Confident that the local boys will win from the fast descriptive eleven, the students are looking forward to Saturday's game with joyful anticipation. Yesterday a rousing mass meeting was held, another followed the school session today and the final one before the Haverhill game will take place tomorrow and it promises to break all records for enthusiasm. It is expected that the largest number of Lowell high followers to ever leave the city with a team will journey to the Haverhill stadium Saturday.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. Special cars will leave Merrimack square at 12:10. Owing to the size of the new stadium the price of admission has this year been cut to 25 cents with students' tickets for sale at 15 cents. Faculty Manager Joseph G. Pryor is one of enthusiastic workers in conducting the mass meetings and he also is active in the arrangements for the practice games with the other classes.

Coach Conway was very much pleased with the result of yesterday's practice. Every man on the team, except Liston, was in fine condition. Liston, whose cheek bone was fractured about a week ago, has returned to school. This afternoon at Spaulding park a scrimmage was held between the varsity team and an eleven comprised of juniors.

The teachers at the high school are also interested in the work of the team and the students were asked to compose songs to be sung by the cheering squads Saturday. Two clever songs written by Miss Myrtle Rugg and one composed by the young women in the school office were selected and are being rehearsed daily.

Miss Rugg's songs is to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia" and is as follows:

Football Song
Bring the dear old football boys,
We'll have another game;
And the way we'll kick that ball
Will not be very tame.
We'll be happy to know the Lowell
High school's out for fame,
And they can play a game of football.
CHORUS
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah for Lowell
High!
We'll win this game, or know the reason why;
We're a big lot of lads, we'll show you
by and by,
Just how to play a game of football.

Second Song
The other is sung to the tune of
"Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!" as follows:
We're a jolly lot of lads,
And we'll soon be high school grads,
And we're in the game to have a lot of fun.
With Coach Conway for our guide,
Lynch and Liston on our side,
And we're going to make the other fellows run.

CHORUS
Kick! Kick! Kick! the dear old football!
Never let it go astray;
We will show the other team
"Things are not quite what they seem."
And we'll show them what they don't know how to play.

Third Spasm
The third song is to the tune of one of Billy Sunday's famous hymns. The words are as follows:
We're cheering again for Lowell high,
We're cheering our team to do or die,
Our ends are very speedy,
And our backs are very low,
Get out and shout for Lowell high.

SEC. BAKER AT SPRINGFIELD

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 16.—The 17th annual meeting of the Consumers' league officially opened with a public banquet in the Hotel Kimball last night and addresses by Newton D. Baker, secretary of war and president of the National Consumers' league, and Dr. David L. Edsall, professor of medicine at Harvard university.

Mr. Baker warned his hearers when introduced that he came to Springfield on a peaceful mission, not in his official capacity as secretary of war, and that he did not intend to speak on warlike subjects. Mr. Baker's address was a general one on the growth of the Consumers' league and its accomplishments. His address was very brief. Two hundred and fifty persons attended the banquet. Frederick J. Hillman was the toastmaster. Dr. Edsall talked on neurosis and its relation to various forms of labor.

"We have found," he said, "that the largest percentage of the sufferers of nervous maladies are piece workers, those who do the same thing over and over again as rapidly as possible, and without any change from month to month and year to year."

PUBLICISTS MEET IN ASTOR MANSION TO DISCUSS "THE MELTING POT"

Mrs. Vincent Astor (No. 4 in the picture) gave as her first entertainment of the season a large dinner at the Astor town house, 340 Fifth avenue, New York (picture No. 1), for the members of the immigration committee of the United States chamber of commerce, made up of well known men and women. It was the first time this house had been opened for a dinner of this kind, but it was not the first entertainment at which Mrs. Astor had been the hostess to aid in the work of the Americanization of immigrants. Her first large dinner was on Oct. 15, 1915, when she entertained at dinner at 122 East Seventy-eighth street and at which the scope of the work of the national Americanization committee was made plain.

One of its objects is the enactment of uniform laws in order to arrive at a uniform interpretation of citizenship in this country and to put the committee in touch with schools and colleges, government agencies and foreign newspapers and to reach especially those immigrants whose work touches on national defenses, such as immigration plants, mines, quarries and railways. She also gave several luncheons last autumn for the committee, at one of which Colonel Roosevelt made an address.

Mr. Astor was unable, owing to another engagement, to be present at the dinner, and Mrs. Astor, who received in the drawing room, had with her the women who were to act as the assistant hostesses at the various tables. These included Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, Mrs. George Cabot Ward, Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mrs. Julius Rosenberg of Chicago, Miss Frances A. Kellor (No. 3 in the picture) and Miss Harriette Post.

Among the eighty-seven guests asked were John R. Finley, New York state commissioner of education, who is No. 2 in the accompanying picture; John Aspegren, Robert Bacon, Nicholas Murray Butler, A. Barton Hepburn, Felix M. Warburg, Marcus M. Marks, Dr. Thomas Barrington, Julius Rosenwald, George Cabot Ward, Charles E. Falconer of Baltimore, Joseph E. Hubinger, president of the New Haven chamber of commerce; John H. Humphrey, president of the chamber of commerce of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; W. A. Law of Philadelphia, Dr. Bruce H. Payne of Nashville, Tenn.; Wolfgang H. Preuss, L. W. Schmidt of Detroit, Dr. Antonio Stella, H. E. Wharton of Washington, R. B. Woodward of Rochester, J. L. Zook of Chicago and Louis R. Cheney of Hartford.

NO CHANGE IN LAW

Congress Will Not Change Law on Transportation of Inflammable Commodities

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Congress will not be asked to change the law regulating the transportation of inflammable commodities. This was decided upon at a conference here yesterday between Secretary Redfield and other officials of the department of commerce, which grew out of the burning of the steamer Congress on the Pacific coast several months ago. Official reports in the case of the Congress showed that the fire was due to a quantity of sheathing tin between which cans of paint, soaked with benzine had been stored.

The party broke up at a late hour wishing the pretty little hostess all the happiness that the world affords. Mrs. Cook will be remembered as Miss Vera Billings, sister of Mr. Henry Billings.

11 BRITISH SHIPS LOST IN NAVAL BATTLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The sea battle between British and German destroyers which took place in the English channel on the night of Oct. 26, when German warcraft made a raid on the channel transport service, was almost within sight of those on board the Canadian Andania, here today from London. Reports brought to the ship after the battle, passengers said, were that eight British outpost vessels, two destroyers and one transport were sunk.

Chief Officer T. J. Chester of the Andania said the liner left London Oct. 21 and that on the evening of the 25th British destroyers were seen moving east at rapid speed. Soon after they had passed out of sight flashes of light were seen and the thunder of guns was heard, coming from an estimated distance of about 12 miles. The flashes and detonations indicated that a brisk battle was in progress, which lasted all night.

The Andania was accompanied by two British destroyers until well past the danger zone.

A.P. OF L. CONVENTION

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 16.—The convention of southern negroes to northern labor centers was brought to the attention of the convention of the American Federation of Labor today when the committee on labor today adopted a resolution designed to eliminate what was characterized as a "menace to the workers in the northern states." The resolution which was adopted by the convention, recited that investigation in the state of Ohio had demonstrated in that state that the negroes were being brought north for the purpose of filling the places of union men demanding better conditions as in the case of freight handlers. Believing that the conditions that prevailed in Ohio may apply in all northern states, the president and executive council of the federation were instructed to inaugurate a movement looking toward the organization of negroes in the southern states.

FRACTURED HIS SKULL IN FALL FROM CYCLE DENIES U-BOAT FIRED UPON LIFEBOATS

Philippe Gauthier, a young man residing at 182 Riverside street, is confined to the Lowell hospital suffering from a fractured skull and his name is on the dangerous list, as a result of a motorcycle accident, which occurred last evening in upper Merrimack street.

Mr. Gauthier was returning to his home with a friend and occupied the rear seat of a motorcycle. When a spot was reached opposite Club Lafayette in Merrimack street shortly before 6 o'clock, a man whose name could not be learned, came running across the street and bumped into the machine, striking Gauthier, with the result that the latter lost his balance and fell, striking the pavement forcibly on the head, where he was removed to the hospital, where after examination it was found he was suffering from a fracture of the skull. Mr. Gauthier is the father of three children.

INDIA EXPORTS WHEAT TO ALBES

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The India government has sanctioned the exportation to England, France, and Italy in November, December and January of $400,000 tons of wheat.

BERLIN, Nov. 15, by wireless to The Associated Press, via Sayville, Nov. 18.—Assertions that the German submarine which sank the British ship Rowanmore, on which there were several Americans, fired upon lifeboats containing members of the crew, are dismissed as utterly false in the report of the commander of the submarine, further details of which became known today. On the contrary, it is said the men on the Rowanmore were taken to the precautions taken by the Germans and the skill with which their operations were carried out. During the 20 minute pursuit of the steamship, the submarine's shots were aimed accurately astern to eliminate the danger to the crew which was heightened at the bow. The Rowanmore was hit ten times, the last shell disabling her propeller.

The submarine ceased firing, the report continues, immediately it was observed that the Rowanmore had abandoned the effort to escape. No shots were fired at the men in the boats. Just before she stopped, the Rowanmore hoisted a signal, but it was impossible to read it from the submarine, at that time about 2000 yards away. Later it was shown that the signal was "I surrender."

The master of the Rowanmore attempted to justify his attempt to escape, the submarine commander reports, by the assertion that he desired to gain time to launch boats, but this pretext was not accepted. Later the Rowanmore's captain was made a prisoner of war for attempting to escape and for summoning assistance by wireless, which speedily brought up a British destroyer. Thereupon the Rowanmore was sunk by a torpedo.

There were two white Americans and five Filipinos in the crew of the Rowanmore, all of whom were saved. Last month, the American government made an informal request to the German government for information in regard to the Rowanmore case. Affidavits obtained by the American consul at Liverpool said the steamship attempted to escape, but the submarine shelled her after she stopped.

Crown Acrobat Alleges He Was Injured By Hitting Hidden Screw on Stage of Theatre

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—Louis F. O'Neill, a clown acrobat, sues $10,000 in a suit against George E. Lothrop, owner of the Bowdoin Square theatre, for injuries to his head resulting from his coming in contact with a stage screw while tumbling.

The case went to trial before Judge Hitchcock and a jury in the superior court, yesterday.

The accident happened April 6, 1915. O'Neill testified that his head struck a screw which was covered by sawdust used in the circus ring.

His allegations that the management was negligent in having the screw there. O'Neill said he was unable to perform any acrobatic stunts since and has been washing dishes in a hotel for a living.

MAYOR ASKS LOCKS AND CANALS TO PAY FOR CANAL BRIDGE

The proprietors of the Locks and Canals on the Merrimack river have been asked by Mayor O'Donnell to pay over an amount of money sufficient to reimburse the city of Lowell for its expenditure in the construction of the new canal bridge at Pawtucket falls. The mayor this morning sent a letter to the above named parties, asking them to confer with the city engineer and go over the cost figures. The letter:

November 15, 1916.
Proprietors of the Locks and Canals on Merrimack River, Lowell, Massachusetts.
Gentlemen:
As you are aware, the city of Lowell has practically completed the construction of the bridge over the canal in School street, just below the Pawtucket bridge. Those of us who have given the matter thought and study believe that your company should bear the cost of the construction of the canal bridge. I believe it to be my duty, therefore, to call your attention to the situation and to ask that you pay over an amount of money sufficient to reimburse the city of Lowell for its expenditure on this new canal bridge, which you will admit was a matter of public convenience and necessity. As to the amount that you should contribute, that may be ascertained by having your engineer confer with the city engineer and go over the cost figures.

tured the whole system of defense around Kenali, which also fell into French hands.

"Fighting at some places was very desperate, the men being up to their necks in water and mud.

"During the night, the enemy counter-attacked, recovering a portion of the trenches, but this morning, he abandoned the whole of his front line, retiring upon the Bistrica river."

AGAINST LOCAL WOMAN

An action of tort in the sum of $10,000 was begun at this afternoon's session of the civil superior court, Justice Keating presiding, against Rose J. Gilbride of this city. The case was brought by Antonina Jankiewicz in an endeavor to recover for the death of her son, Stefan.

In the plaintiff's declaration it is alleged that Stefan Jankiewicz was killed as a result of being struck by an automobile owned by the defendant and operated by her servant, a Mr. Guitiere. The alleged accident occurred on Middlesex street on Nov. 14, 1915, and the plaintiff claims it was through negligence and carelessness on the part of the agent of the defendant. The defendant denies each and every allegation and claims that the plaintiff's intestate was not exercising due care at the time of the accident. R. E. Walsh and Harold Varum for the plaintiff and Frank Dunbar for the defendant.

PREDICTS A SPLENDID MERCHANT MARINE

STEVENSON TAYLOR BEFORE 50-
CIETY OF NAVAL ARCHITECTS AND MARINE ENGINEERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Predictions of a "splendid" American merchant marine as a result of the war, the federal reserve act and shipping legislation were made here today by Stevenson Taylor, president of the society of naval architects and marine engineers, in a speech marking the opening of the 24th annual meeting of the organization.

The United States, he said, was making rapid strides in shipbuilding, whereas between 1910 and 1914 this country produced only 93 per cent. of 234,000 tons, as against Great Britain's 60 per cent. of the average annual world's production of 2,740,000 tons. Mr. Taylor declared Great Britain in 1918 will produce 2,200,000 tons and the United States 865,000, an increase of 14 per cent. for Great Britain and about 52 per cent. for the United States over the figures for 1915.

American ship yards, the speaker said, are building 1,500,000 tons of steel ships and 50,000 tons of wooden vessels to be completed within two years. One-third of them are for foreign nations. To September last, he said, 196 foreign built ships with a tonnage of 642,542 were admitted to American registry.

TRIO ARRESTED FOR ALLEGED
LARCENY

John Engle and Agnes Flaherty were arraigned before Judge Enright in police court this morning on a complaint charging them with the larceny of a silk dress, valued at $15, the property of the Frankel-Goodman Corp., 242 Central street. According to the police the defendants have records and their method of stealing goods from stores while rather old, has not been worked in this city for a long time.

About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Engle and the Flaherty girl with two other men entered the Frankel-Goodman place and while one of the men was talking to a clerk the others were looking at clothing.

After the quartet had left the store it was found that a silk dress was missing and suspicion rested upon those who had been in the store. Word

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 16.—Mr. Hughes made a net gain of 42 votes in Minnesota today through a corrected unofficial vote in Houston county and the auditors' sheets from Lesueur, Morrison, Mower and Wadena counties. The totals at noon stood: Wilson 17,784; Hughes 178,213. Hughes plurality, 422.

CHALFOUX'S
OF THE SQUARE

If there is an admirable aid to correct English it is the book that gives you the correct pronunciation of common words. A systematic use of such a book will quickly broaden one's vocabulary and mark him as a speaker of good English. Words are not always spoken as they are spelled and it is a good plan to get posted in these oddities. It is a good deal like the remark of one of our friends, who said, "Most new people in town pronounce your name Chalfoux's, but your customers call it 'My Store'."

25,000 TROOPS AT BORDER IN BIG WAR GAME

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Nov. 16.—Twenty-five thousand soldiers comprising National Guardsmen from nine states and several regular army organizations today began what army officers declare to be the most extensive maneuvers attempted since the coming of the National Guard to the Mexican border. The soldiers are about equally divided into two armies, one to be known as the "brown army" and the other as the "white army."

The invading force, the "brown army" is to try to wrest a large section of territory known as the "lower Rio Grande valley" from the "white army" the defending force.

The "brown army" probably will be in command of Brig. Gen. H. A. Allen of the town brigade, and Brig. Gen. F. M. Lewis, commanding the first brigade, Minnesota infantry, is expected to command the "white army."

All rules of warfare will be observed. Towns are to be captured and manufactured plants of various kinds "seized." The town of Point Isabel with its United States radio is within the area of warfare.

CARRIERS FAIL TO SEND BACK COAL CARS

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COM-MISSIONER MCGRATH THREATENS
DRASTIC ACTION

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 16.—Commenting upon the apparent failure of several carriers to fully observe informal instructions for the return of foreign coal cars to the owning roads, Commissioner C. C. McGrath of the interstate commerce commission served notice today that continued laxity in this connection would result in drastic action.

"The commission," said Commissioner McGrath, "does not want to do anything drastic. It has preferred to achieve its object through agreement with the carriers, but it seems that this method is not meeting with success, and I am less sanguine than I was a few days since that efforts along this line will be successful. The railroads do not seem to trust each other. They do not want to take each other's word."

If the commission is forced to take drastic measures it will be done and I will serve notice now that I am done issuing informal proclamations and that the next instructions you will get, unless those already given are complied with, will be in the form of formal orders from the full commission.

EUROPEAN WAR NEWS

Field Marshal von Mackensen's army in the Rumanian province of Dobruja is in retreat, the Petrograd war office is said today, burning villages as it falls back.

Increasing pressure by the Russo-Rumanian army in Dobruja, which rallied after its severe defeat by von Mackensen last month, has been in evidence for several days. Bucharest reported a further advance yesterday, towards the important Tchernavoda-Constanza railroad, which the Teutonic allies captured in their drive. Berlin today entered a denial of the Rumanian claim and in its report on the Dobruja campaign, chronicled only encounters between advanced detachments.

Fighting in the Somme region of northern France shows little diminution in intensity with attack and counter attack following swiftly.

British Advance Halted

The British advance in the Ancre region seems to have halted, London announcing only artillery activity during the night. Berlin, however, reports heavy attacks by the British yesterday, notably one on the village of Grandcourt, which is declared to have been broken down. The successes against the French scored by the Germans north of the Somme yesterday are reported by Berlin today. They consisted, according to the statement, in the capture by house to house fighting, of the eastern section of the village of Souilly, where the French were manning the German positions in the St. Pierre-Vaast wood and of French trenches on the northern edge of this wood.

For their part, the French reacted against the Germans south of the Somme, near Chaunee, where a German counter attack was announced yesterday to have wrested a part of the village of Pressoire from French possession. The French recaptured this ground last night, Paris announces in today's official bulletin.

Invasion of Rumania Continues

The invasion of Rumania is continuing successfully, Berlin announces, although increasing resistance apparently is being encountered by Gen. von Falkenhayn's forces along the Wallachian border, the tenacious defense of the Rumanians being mentioned. Nevertheless, progress is claimed for the Teutonic forces along the Rotherthurn and Szurdok pass roads, with the capture of more than 1200 prisoners.

Allied Successes in Macedonia

In Macedonia, the entente allies are winning further successes in their campaign for Monastir. In their flanking movement on the east, they have advanced far into the Cerna river bend region, to within a few miles of the town, forcing the German-Bulgarian forces back and menacing the lines of the Teutonic allies on the plain to the south, where the French and Russians are making substantial progress, now being reported by Paris as within four miles of Monastir. The Germans and Bulgarians admit withdrawals in the Cerna river region.

CLOSE OF THE TRIAL

The case of John H. Harrington against Dennis A. Long, for alleged libel on 27 counts was given to the jury this morning in the superior court at Cambridge by Judge Chase who made his charge to the jury yesterday afternoon at the close of the session. The argument of Dennis J. Murphy for the defence was made early in the forenoon, and of J. Gilbert Hill, for the plaintiff immediately after the noon recess. The charge made by Judge Chase was a clear explanation of the law of libel, with special reference to its application in this case. Yesterday was the third day of the trial, but there was little testimony presented.

Frederick Freeman was the only witness called by the defence. He testified that he has dealt with printing machinery for many years and that he recently visited The Sun, printing plant.

He testified that he found seven linotype machines and was asked as to their market value but Mr. Hill objected, asking to be shown the qualifications of the witness before he be permitted to testify as an expert. Questioned by Mr. Murphy, the witness said that he does a gross business of $10,000 yearly.

He gave his estimates as to the value of different machines now in operation in the plant.

He said the press was worth about $15,000.

Questioned by Mr. Hill: Which did you make this examination?

Three weeks ago.

How long did you stay?

About two hours.

How much attention did you give to the press?

About half an hour.

And part of that time you talked with the foreman?

Yes.

How long were you in the composing room?

About an hour.

Did you make a particular study of each machine?

No. I did not study any machine especially; I looked them all over and saw they were in good condition.

What is the biggest price you ever received for a printing press?

$6000.

Would you give the prices you named for the various machines?

I could not afford to. If I did, I

TRADE CONDITIONS AT END OF THE WAR

C. L. DEERING, SPEAKER AT THE AMERICAN MINING CONGRESS
AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—"Conditions growing out of the European war will demand more than ever that the people of the United States develop and live in the spirit of the international mind," said C. L. Deering, former president of the Chicago chamber of commerce, in an address on "World Trade Conditions of the Future," before the American Mining Congress here today.

"We have repeatedly been reminded," said Mr. Deering, "that the Spanish-American war of 1898 made this country an international power. Entrance into the world as a world's power quickened that international understanding known as the Monroe Doctrine and admonished both ourselves and the world that hereafter in statesmanship and in naval and military resources we must measure up to our responsibilities, even as in industrial and commercial development we must measure up to our opportunities."

"The markets of the world are not to be taken by conquest. They must be won and held by the same business principles on which our domestic trade is founded—superior goods, superior service, uniform fair-dealing, unflinching reliability and that faculty of being eternally 'on the job' that is the true characteristic of American business."

"It is the foreign market that we should strive to hold in the future. Then there comes to us at once the imperative necessity of a merchant marine—American ships to carry American merchandise. Another thing we must consider is the establishment of a permanent non-partisan tariff commission."

"The immediate and tangible opportunity is now to us for the development of the future may afford by educating ourselves and our people on the principles of conservation, economy, patriotism and national preparedness."

GEN. KINGMAN DEAD

News has been received of the death of Brigadier General Dan C. Kingman, U.S.A., retired, which occurred at Atlantic City. Deceased was appointed to the military academy at West Point in 1870, from New Hampshire, in which state he was born in 1852, and was retired March 6, 1916, on account of age. He was appointed a brigadier general October 14, 1913, when he became chief of engineers.

CO-OPERATION AMONG PRODUCERS OF COAL

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—"The three C's" in the coal industry—"Co-operation, Conservation and Competition"—were the topics of an address yesterday to the American Mining Congress by E. W. Parker of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., director of the Anthracite bureau of information. He said in part:

"It is encouraging to note that there is at last established under the federal government at Washington a tribunal whose words and deeds so far have shown that it realizes not only the desirability but the necessity for a higher degree of co-operation among the producers of coal, to the end that some stability may be given to the industry and we may hope before long to see coal mining given as fair a chance to exist under the federal trade commission as railroading is under the interstate commerce commission."

It is reasonable to believe the time is not far distant when coal operators may and will co-operate in an exchange of information relative to trade conditions, car and labor supply, and similar subjects, so that production may be regulated somewhat in accordance with demand, even as now the Canadian fruit growers regulate their shipments with entire satisfaction to the consumers, and with stabilizing of the industry from the growers' standpoint which was not dreamed of twenty years ago.

There is no branch of industry in which the greater need of co-operation than in coal. The coal operators are beginning to realize this. There is a disposition to get together and talk over matters affecting the economics of their business, and to consider the problems that confront them, and to try by co-operative methods to improve service to their patrons and achieve a better return on their investment of capital, labor and brains.

"Competition, if it is to be the life of the coal industry, must be competition that constructs and not that which destroys. Price cutting to secure an order and thus to injure the business of a competitor is not according to a high standard of business ethics. It is injurious to the trade as a whole. The rivalry among anthracite operators (for in this rivalry is the securing of better living conditions for their employees, is a competition of service. Its object, is through the improved living conditions to develop a better grade of workmen, who by rendering better service to their employers, will enable the latter to render better service to the public."

Ovation to Gen. Sweetser

Head of 2nd Brigade a Speaker at Great Banquet to Everett Soldiers in State Armory There

EVERETT, Nov. 16.—(Brig. Gen. E. Leroy Sweetser of the 2nd Massachusetts Brigade was given an ovation of several minutes' duration in the state armory last night at the big reception and banquet to the men of Co. B, 8th regiment, and Everett men from 19 other companies which served on the border. More than 500 civilians turned out to do the men honor.

Besides Capt. Lewis P. Swain and the men of Co. B the guests were Brig. Gen. Sweetser and Col. Willis W. Stover of the 5th regiment, both Everett men; Lieut. Col. Calvin Coolidge, recently issued by the 8th regiment, Capt. U. M. Diller of the United States army, who has been detailed to muster out Co. B; Capt. Robert Magee of Co. E, 5th regiment, and Lieut. Russell Hobbs of Co. A, Lieut. Fred R. Jones of Co. B, and Lieut. Albert P. Wiggatt of the 1st battalion, Signal Corps.

The armory was a mass of bunting and flags and the big drill floor was covered with the banquet tables. An orchestra played during the dinner. Mayor James Chambers introduced Lieut. Sweetser, who then made the governor's council as toastmaster, after delivering an address of welcome. Mr. Wiggatt read a letter from Sec. of War Baker to Gen. Sweetser, thanking him and his men in behalf of the government for the service rendered. Lieut. Coolidge then made the address that the people of this nation can secure respect for their rights and maintain peace only through an adequate military organization. Gen. Sweetser's introduction was the signal for a wild demonstration from the military men, in which the citizens in general joined. When the tumult had subsided he remarked with a smile: "Evidently the men of Co. B realize that I am not coming down the line looking for a missing button or a broken shoestring."

"If you people of Everett had seen Co. B as I have seen them for the past four months," he said in opening his address, "you would be as proud as I am of the company. It looks better to me tonight than ever before."

Other speakers were Lieut. Col. Dyer, Col. Stover, Capt. Swain, and Lieut. Coolidge. The last named speaking in behalf of the men of Co. B, Lewis Joel told a number of humorous stories.

Contributions of this kind form small though important parts of the great history of earth life that is gradually being written through the patient labors of paleontologists and biologists. They are of scientific interest not only as additions to the sum of human knowledge, but they are being more and more utilized in a practical way in determining the location of rock structures favorable to the occurrence of oil and gas, in determining the distance necessary to drill to oil, gas and water-bearing beds, and in tracing and determining the position of economically important strata, such as clay, lignite and coal.

Fuller's Margin Over Roberts in 9th Congressional District Increased to 308 by Recount

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—The recount of the vote in the 9th congressional district, which was completed last night with the counting of the vote in Somerville, gives Fuller a plurality of 308 votes. Fuller gained five in Chelsea and 21 votes and his opponent, E. A. and 21 votes in favor of Fuller. The greatest change occurred in Dover, where one of the mistakes discovered was in counting five votes as blanks, and Fuller made a net gain of 22 votes. OLD AGE PENSION AND HEALTH INSURANCE

About 60 people, including a delegation of women from the Lowell guild, attended the public hearing held in the aldermanic chamber at city hall, before the special commission on social insurance, last evening. The commission is composed of two members of the senate, one of whom is chairman; four members of the house of representatives and three outsiders appointed by the governor. The members of the commission present at last evening's hearing were as follows: Senator Farnsworth, chairman; Senator Wood, Rep. Catheron, Wendell G. Thayer, Miss Edna J. Spencer and Mr. Meade. At the close of the hearing, it was found that the majority of those present favored non-contributory old-age pensions and a broadening of the scope of health insurance.

The hearing was called to order at 8 o'clock by Chairman Farnsworth, who told how and why the commission was created and explained the purpose of the hearing. It was explained that there were two insurance plans to be considered, the contributory and the non-contributory, although some claim that any system is contributory inasmuch as the people must pay the pension in the last analysis.

Thomas Feidstein of Boston, was one of the speakers and he informed the commission that although a resident of the Hub, he came to Lowell some time ago for the purpose of investigating working conditions in Lowell, and accordingly he has secured employment in a local mill. He said his weekly earnings are below $10 and in order to have both ends meet, he does his own cooking on a gas stove in his room. He said he does not believe in special commissions which take from the state crib, although he was a recent candidate for public office. "In the mill and everywhere I go," he said, "I talk old-age pension with those I come in contact with, and I find that the general opinion is for a non-contributory system."

Richard Sykes wished to be registered as being opposed to the system and in the course of his remarks said he has been an employee of a mill for over 50 years, starting in at $7.50 a week. He said: "I have raised a family and managed to save a dollar or two and acquire some real estate. I believe if people were not leading such a high life during their early years, they could save enough to take care of them after they retire from active work. I have about $10,000 in property despite the fact that my wife has been ill for several years. This past year, I have noticed that girls in the mills have been earning anything from $10 to $22 a week. Those people have the same opportunity I had to live frugally and save money, and I don't believe I should be forced to contribute to the support of any man or woman who has been in good health and worked for years. The only solution is an 8-hour day, three shifts, with a law to force every able bodied man to work, and in this manner you will find that the pauper institutions conducted by the cities and state will not be so well filled."

"Can you separate yourself from the community?" asked Miss Spencer. "No, I don't know as I could." Mr. Sykes answered several questions and then stated he believed that when a man reached the age of 50 and meets with reverses, the state should come to his relief as is done in England, and he said he believed proper aid should be given those who have been sober and good patriotic citizens.

The next speaker was William E. Sproule, who said he is 42 years of age, married and has two children. He wanted to go on record as favoring the old age pensions. He said although he is earning fairly good money he is hardly able to make both ends meet. He termed his wage as a "stomach wage," but he admitted that his condition is far better than that of half of the people of this country. He favored the non-contributory system.

The last speaker was Benjamin Staveley, who said in England old couples are kept together and they get 10 shillings a week for pension. He said the thought that he and his wife might be separated in their old age has shortened their days. At this point a standing vote was taken in favor of the non-contributory system and more than half of the attendance stood up.

The hearing was then declared closed and the matter of health insurance was taken up. Miss Clara E. Holland of the Lowell Guild said that in the past three months the guild has assisted 258 families where there is insurance carried by the Metropolitan Insurance Co. In 198 other families treatment has been given and in 78 families full payment has been received. In 120 cases there has been only part or no pay given and in 37 families no money has been paid whatsoever. Miss Holland favored the passage of some legislation which will enable persons who put aside a small part of their earnings to get proper care in case of sickness or injury.

In reply to a question from Lawrence Cummings the chairman of the commission said hearings had been held in Boston and the commission had collected much data relative to organizations which collect weekly stipends from their members. Mr. Cummings said he believed much good would be derived if the insurance commissioners were brought into conference with the special committee. He said he wants to have the people, so far as they are able, take care of themselves. "If men or women through no fault of their own meet with misfortune, then they should not be cast aside and made paupers or else driven to poverty," said Mr. Cummings.

Dr. Francis R. Mahoney was the last speaker and his remarks had to do with the relation of health insurance to the workmen's compensation act. He said many cases come under the act, which properly should come under health insurance and he cited a few cases. The doctor concluded by saying that in order to successfully continue the workman's compensation act it is necessary to broaden the scope of social insurance. The commission returned to Boston last evening and today is holding hearings in Fall River.

THE BRITISH REPLY

England refuses to back down on her blacklist of firms in America with which she forbids her subjects to trade. Sir Edward Grey writes a lengthy reply to the American note and seems to make out a strong case in justification of refusing to trade with concerns known to be in sympathy with the powers with which England is at war and whose employees, according to this note, have been made bases of supply for German cruisers. Here is a significant declaration from the British reply:

"It is common knowledge that German business establishments in foreign countries have been not merely centres of German trade, but active agents for the dissemination of German political and social influence and for the purpose of espionage. In some cases they have been used as bases of supply for German cruisers and in other cases as organizers and paymasters of mercenaries employed to destroy by foul means factories engaged in making, or ships engaged in carrying supplies required by the allies.

"Such operations have been carried on in the territory even of the United States itself, and I am bound to observe, what I do not think will be denied, that no adequate action has yet been taken by the government of the United States to suppress breaches of neutrality of this particular criminal kind, which I know that they are the first to discontinue and deplore."

That is a charge of breaches of neutrality by American citizens without any move on the part of the United States to provide a remedy. This no doubt has reference to the numerous explosions in munitions factories, in ships loaded with munitions for the allies and in other cases.

The United States government has done all in its power to discover the perpetrators of these crimes, but without much success. The evidence by which some culprits were convicted showed pretty clearly that there were certain miscreants in this country engaged in that business. These crimes were breaches of neutrality for which the United States cannot be held responsible, for the reason that so far as the department of justice could run down the criminals they were arrested and punished or else deported.

The contention of Viscount Grey is, that England as a sovereign state has a right to so direct the trade of her subjects that it will not increase the resources of the nations with which she is at war and thereby tend to prolong the struggle. On the other hand the government of the United States has a right to protect its citizens against discrimination, provided the charges made against those named on the blacklist cannot be substantiated. Otherwise, it would appear, the task would be hopeless. On which government does the burden of proof lie? That appears to be an important question to be threshed out later but on which the solution of the difficulty may finally depend.

SLEEPLESS STUDENTS

There is a great demand for an eight hour day all over this country and part of the reason on which it is urged is, that the workers may have eight hours for work, eight hours for sleep and eight for doing as they please. At Harvard university at the present time, there is an inquiry into the number of hours' sleep a student should have in order to do his best work. Too much sleep, it is said, makes a dull head, while too little is even worse. The Harvard authorities, it appears, find that a certain proportion of the students do not sleep enough and the students themselves are in favor of less than eight hours for slumber. The authorities are beginning to find that many of the students are unable to do their best work from lack of sleep. Whether they burn too much of the midnight oil or engage in nightly carousals is not shown, but the "night owl" is not an unknown character among the students of unlimited means. What is true of Harvard in this respect is true of all colleges where the students are their own masters after lecture hours.

DEMONETIZING GOLD

The proposition to demonetize gold in the interest of European nations that are not likely to be able to pay their debts in that medium, will not be popular in this country. The presidential campaign of 1896 was fought on the issue of establishing the monetary ratio of 16 to 1 for silver and gold in this country has changed the standard for our money. At that time it was necessary because gold was scarce and silver was plenty; but the great increase in the production of gold since that time has changed the situation entirely, so that those who favored bimetalism then would probably oppose it today. Moreover, England then held the greater part of the gold supply of the world. Today the United States holds more perhaps than any two of the greatest nations, the latter having had to pay out their stock for expenditures in the war. The United States conducted its transactions with the countries at war on a gold basis and expects to get paid in money of equal value.

MEXICAN COMMISSION

That is rather startling news that comes from Atlantic City to the effect that the chairman of the Mexican commission has backed down on the agreement made with two American representatives endeavoring to assist Mexico in formulating a plan that will restore normal conditions along the border, if not throughout that unhappy country. The commission as a whole had agreed upon a plan and expected no further question as to its adoption, but the chairman went to Philadelphia, where he conferred with a Mexican official. When he returned, he refused to agree to the details of the plan and hence there is a possibility that the whole undertaking may be abandoned by the American representatives, leaving the Mexican question in as big a muddle as ever. It would be interesting to know just what influence was used to turn the plant chairman of the commission from his concurrence in the plan previously adopted.

TURNING OUT DOPE FIENDS

The charge that certain Boston doctors are making dope funds in large numbers is quite alarming. Luxurious drug parlors are found equipped in the fashionable district in the Back Bay and it is said that one physician engaged in this business has written from 160 to 175 prescriptions a day. To degrade the medical profession in such a manner is a high crime in itself, but to start so many people on the downward path as drug fiends is still worse. These doctors catered only to wealthy people as may be judged from the fact that each prescription cost $2.

AMERICAN U-BOAT

While the feat of the German submarines in crossing the Atlantic is being commented upon as unique, it may be of interest to state that a U-boat has been built at the Fore River shipyards at Quincy capable of a speed of 15.2 knots an hour on the surface with a cruising radius of 8000 miles. The boat has been built for Spain but still better will be built for the United States under the direction of the strategy board made up of the greatest inventors in the world.

FAKE SOLICITORS

The Boston chamber of commerce has done good work in stopping the appeals for fake charities. One of the imposters shown up was soliciting funds to purchase wooden limbs for French and English soldiers. The fake charity solicitor is found in every community, finding a sufficient number of easy victims to make his business profitable. There have been many of them here in Lowell and some which the Boston authorities hunted down.

It is to be regretted that so little interest was shown in the hearing by the Social Insurance commission at city hall last night on the question of finding a means of protecting the wage earner in case of sickness and in old age. The subject is now, of course, and the public had rather short notice. The matter is one that will engage the attention of citizens and legislators in the future although public sentiment at the present time is as opposed to extending the pension system for any class.

Now that we are on the verge of cold weather, as usual a great many will be found wearing unsuitable clothing with the results that colds and other ailments will follow. Safety first and preparedness are important considerations at this season.

And the returns show, despite the wall from republican sources in behalf of the border states, that the voters of those states had more faith in a democratic administration than in a republican.

Seen and Heard

The hardest thing in the world to recover when once lost is friendship. There are some women of 60 who are much more fascinating than some girls of 20.

You may say what you will about fat and good nature, but we notice that the fat man always wants the lion's share.

Judging from the display of photographs and home-made bouquets on their campaign cards the candidates are on pretty good terms with themselves.

We have congressmen and a congressman but the old congresswoman has gone by the board with the exception of a few pairs down in Lawrence where girls wear woolen stockings.

How many people know what the state flag of Massachusetts looks like? Do you? Well here is a description of it. It is of white silk, with the state coat of arms on one side and on the other side a blue shield with a representation of a green pine tree. The entire flag is five feet in length and four and one-half in width. This flag was adopted in 1885.

Comforting Knowledge

Sir David Henderson, director general of military aeronautics, possesses a vein of grim humor. "Don't be nervous," he once remarked to a novice in the art of flying. "I showed some trepidation while preparing for his flight. 'Don't be nervous,' he said, 'you'll come down again. There is no known instance of an aeroplane not alighting.'"

Duels in Greenland

In Greenland when one man has been insulted by another the adversaries each make a entire in verse. The victor recites to his householder and the servants and the women know it by heart. Then a place of meeting is appointed. The two men, the insurer and the insured, the offender and the offended, stand face to face, and each recites his poem. His friends and servants form a chorus. Each man tries hard to raise the laugh against his adversary. Each man speaks in turn, whipping the enemy with epigram and quip, and after two hours of this witty battle of wits the victor is declared. The whole assembly most.

Shooting Stars

"Look for shooting stars tonight," said the Boston Post Monday, but it was of little use to try to follow the advice, unless one went to moving pictures, where the stars were indulging in pistol play. But the reason for the Post's advice was that Nov. 13 is the most famous date in history for the special phenomenon. Monday was the anniversary of that great "showers of falling stars" that struck terror into men's hearts, partly because they each came on the 13th of the month, and partly because many people declared that the fulfillment was at hand of the description of the world's end in the Apocalypse. "The stars of heaven shall fall," the words of a big tree carted, but unknown to him, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. The "star rain" of Nov. 13, 1833, was one of the events which are recalled with such other unique phenomena as the freezing of Boston harbor, the great yellow day, etc.

For Country Maidens

This time of the year, the temptation to a young man to marry a country girl is a strong one. He is tempted by the thought that he can get a good wife for a good price. He is tempted by the thought that he can get a good wife for a good price. He is tempted by the thought that he can get a good wife for a good price.

Claims He Almost Gave Up Hope

William S. Chapman of 55 Mount Grove St. Tells How He Suffered 20 Years

In a recent interview, The Plant Juice man, who has his headquarters at Dows, The Druggists, in Merrimack Square, said: "We have introduced Plant Juice into a number of great American cities and everywhere it has met with a tremendous success. Plant Juice is purely an herbal preparation and is proving to be the greatest ever produced. Once the public of a city tests it, they know its merits, and great demand for it follows. It is particularly a tonic for city people, who are afflicted with various forms of debility—to nervous, stomach, blood and kidney troubles—in fact to a general run-down condition. Plant Juice tones up as does no other preparation. It gives immediate relief to indigestion, loss of appetite, stomach, liver, kidney, trouble, and blood disorders are relieved by Plant Juice. It is a tonic specific for general debility and organic weakness in men and women, and is sure to bring a return of robust spirits, of cheerfulness and good health.

Searching at random from a mass of written testimonials is that of Mr. William S. Chapman, who lives at No. 55 Mount Grove street, a well known carpenter who has been a resident of Lowell for the past 25 years and has many friends and acquaintances. He related:

"I had been troubled with stomach, kidney, bladder trouble and constipation for the past 20 years and had about given up hope of ever getting relief. Most everything I ate would distress me. I was bloated with gas, could not sleep at night, and had very nervous and restless, felt tired all the time and had no ambition for anything. I started to take Plant Juice as a last resort, and it has greatly relieved my stomach, and the pains from which I suffered. I can sleep well and feel better in every way. I am able to recommend Plant Juice to others.

The Plant Juice Man is at Dows, The Druggists, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

"Fruit-a-lives" Made Him Feel As If Walking On Air

ORILLIA, Nov. 28th, 1914.
"For over two years, I was troubled with Constipation, Drowsiness, Lack of Appetite and Headaches. One day I saw your sign which read 'Fruit-a-lives make you feel like walking on air.' This appealed to me, so I decided to try a box. In a very short time, I began to feel better, and now I feel fine. I have a good appetite, relish everything I eat, and the headaches are gone entirely. I recommend this pleasant fruit medicine to all my friends."

comes to every girl to stay close indoors, and protect her comfort from the weather. She likes to sit by the fireplace and read, to work about the warm kitchen, or sew or crochet in the living room, by the glowing heater, when it is raining and blowing and cold on the road.

Fortunate, indeed, is the girl who has some task that must take her out of doors a certain amount each day, for she is the one who will exercise enough. A walk to school, to work, or even after cows is a fine thing. For she will keep her cheeks, a trim figure, and a bright eye, while her sister who sits indoors will come through the winter with a pasty complexion and too much flesh.

Get out of doors all through November and the following months. Make it your business to get out every day, rain or shine, and walk, ride or run in the open air. Do not coddle yourself. Begin preparing now to leave whatever window wide open at night, whatever the weather may be, my dear, whatever the outdoors girl this winter. Keep young, strong, healthy and hearty. There is nothing better than a daily tramp in the fresh air to keep your digestive system in order. Your skin fresh and soft, and your expression happy. Annie Frances in Farm Life.

The Day's Result
Is anybody happier because you passed this day? Does anyone remember that you spoke to him today? This day is almost over and its tolling time is through. Is there anyone to remind you now a kindly word of you?

Did you give a cheerful greeting to the one who came along? Or a cheerful sort of "howdy" and then vanish in the thought? Were you selfish, pure and simple as you rushed along your way? Or in someone's grateful for a deed you did today?

Can you say tonight in parting with the day that's slipping fast, that you helped a single brother of the many that you passed? Is a single heart relieved over what you did or said?

Does a man whose hours were fading now with courage look ahead? Did you waste the day or use it, was it well or poorly spent? Did you leave a trail of kindness or a trail of heartache behind you? As you close your eyes in slumber do you think that God would say, "You have earned one more tomorrow by the work you did today?"

—Edgar A. Guest in the Detroit Free Press.

COUNT TARNOWSKI

The date for the departure of the new Austro-Hungarian ambassador to the United States, Count Adam Tarnowski, was announced yesterday. Count Tarnowski has not been fired, but he is not likely to leave Sofia, where he is stationed as Austro-Hungarian minister, for three weeks. Count Tarnowski is now at Sofia winding up his affairs there. Before he starts for the United States arrangements for his safe conduct through the British spheres must be made.

That Count Tarnowski is going to Washington pleases all circles in Vienna and at Budapest, as he is regarded as the man best suited for the post, apart from the fact that he is one of the most able diplomats in the monarchy. The newspapers in commenting on his appointment generally express satisfaction that the Washington post is to be filled again and the hope that the new ambassador will succeed in fostering in the United States not only good relations between Austria-Hungary and this country, but also the right impression concerning Austria-Hungary's position and objectives in the war. That it doesn't make any difference who the girl is, it is good enough to be with her is good enough to protect.

That judging from the use of telephones for other than business purposes, telephonicitis must be raging again.

That many residents of Lowell are taking the last opportunity to befermed at St. Joseph's college hall before the house duty rule is abolished.

That there was great rejoicing at the police station yesterday, when it was announced that the house duty rule had been abolished.

That city hall is more or less an experimental station and judging from that angle, it doesn't make much difference who is nominated or elected.

That some people think the list of candidates for the primaries is the weakest ever, but we don't see much difference as compared with other years.

EMPLOYERS OF 7,000,000 IN NEW ORGANIZATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Formation of the National Industrial Conference board with 12 of the most important industrial organizations of the country in its membership, as a "clearing house of information," in the proposed study of problems confronting manufacturers of the United States, was announced here yesterday at a meeting of the National Foundry association, an organization of iron manufacturers.

Frederick P. Fish, member of Boston, is chairman and Maxine M. Alexander of West Lynn, Mass., chairman of the new organization. The industrial bodies which have joined the board are the National Foundry association, National Metal Trades association, National Council for Industrial Interests, National Association of Manufacturers, National Association of Manufacturers, National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, National Association of Wood Manufacturers, National Association of Silk Manufacturers, National Association of American Typographers and Printers, National Association of Paper and Pulp Association and Rubber Club of America.

Membership in these organizations is said to number 15,000 employers, giving work to approximately 7,000,000 persons and representing about $8,000,000,000 of capital.

"Heretofore to a substantial extent," said Mr. Alexander, "each manufacturer has studied only the problem directly affecting himself, ignoring the fact that all industry is inter-related and that there is a vital need for co-operative action and united effort. The new has brought many new problems and peace will bring many more. These must be studied and solved."

The conference board will be a clearing house of information. Its purpose will be to analyze and present the essential elements in the situation, suggest methods and inspire united and intelligent action. Industry in this country must have the sympathetic support of the public. It must have the co-operation of the government and it must act intelligently and definitely on its own account.

Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank, asserted a new board has been called into existence in response to public sentiment, "demanding and needing fullness and accuracy of information affecting its vital interests."

BURGLAR CAPTURED BY HAVERHILL WOMAN

HAVERHILL, Nov. 16.—After a desperate hand-to-hand fight with a burglar, who she found in her home on her return from a visit to a neighbor's house, Mrs. Cora E. Leine, wife of Ralph M. Leine of a Summer street, last evening subdued the man and held him until passersby, in answer to her screams, came to her assistance and held him for arrest.

Frank Larnescor, 39 years old, claiming to live at 121 Cannon street, Lawrence, was arrested, charged with breaking and entering and larceny.

Mrs. Leine soon after supper paid a visit to the police station.

brief visit to a neighbor. When she returned, she saw Larnescor standing in the sitting room with her handbag in his grasp. She asked why he was there and what he wanted.

The man offered to return to her the contents of the handbag, among which was some jewelry. For answer, Mrs. Leine seized him by the arms and began to scream for help.

The young man tossed her about. From side to side the two struggled and the man was near the end of the kitchen that connected with a door.

The woman locked this door and then spring between the man and the only other means of exit, screaming all the while. Harry W. Bailey, assistant city engineer, and Clyde B. Barrett, passing at the time, heard the cries and rushed to the house.

Four Nashua Firms Ask Injunctions
Against Molders to Prevent Interference With Employees

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 16.—Capital in its dispute with labor has resorted to methods of injunction for the first time in the history of Nashua.

Frederick W. Mansfield, recently designated nominee for governor in Massachusetts, is one of the counsel for labor.

More than 100 of the striking iron molders of this city appeared in the superior court yesterday morning, in answer to summonses to show cause why they should not be enjoined from interfering with men employed at the Co-operative foundry, the White Mountain Freezer company, the Fletcher Machine company, and William Highton & Sons.

Judge Pike, after conference with Mr. Mansfield and ex-Mayor William H. Barry, counsel for the respondents, and County Solicitor John B. Flynn, representing the complainants, put the hearing over till next Wednesday.

URGE HEAVY PENALTY FOR CAR DELAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The American Railway association, at its semi-annual meeting here yesterday, to consider car shortage, adopted a per diem charge ranging from 45 cents to $1.25 for each freight car which any one road shall withhold from another and decided to impose a demurrage penalty on any road which violates the association rules relating to car shortage. There were 352 members present, representing about 300,000 miles of road.

The association also appointed a committee to confer in Louisville on Friday with Interstate Commerce Commissioner McChord, with a view to effecting co-operation with the government upon car shortage. The men appointed were C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central; H. E. Bryant, vice president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; G. L. Peck, fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh; W. G. Bester, president of the Central railroad of New Jersey.

It is the plan of the railroads to make the new demurrage rules effective December 1, assuming the approval of the Interstate Commerce commission. The new rules are declared by the association to provide exceptionally drastic penalties against railroads detaining on their lines freight cars belonging to another railroad.

Following are the demurrage penalties proposed, which the association hopes will promote the prompt unloading of freight cars by shippers:

After the expiration of free time, $2 for the first day, $3 for the second day,

$1 for the third day and $5 for the fourth and each succeeding day.

The resolution provides that a road will be penalized $5 for every car which, owned by another road, it may upon reloading, divert in any direction except the one which would take it back toward the home road.

The per diem minimum charge of 45 cents approximates the cost of ownership of equipment, it was stated, and the maximum of $1.25 represents this cost, plus the net earnings of the car. The principle of variable per diem will be based upon car and traffic conditions, with a special committee to determine when the per diem should vary.

PRES. GOMPERS TALKS ON ADAMSON LAW

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 16.—President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor today received telegrams from the heads of the four railroad brotherhoods saying they expected to address the federation at convention next Monday or Tuesday on the 8-hour law. The law seemed to be general among the federation delegates today that the convention would take action to co-operate with their brotherhoods in insisting on enforcement of the law.

While Gompers would not commit himself as advocating a strike by the railroad men if the law is not made effective, he asked the newspapermen why there should not be a strike if the law is not enforced. Vice-President Duncan and O'Connell expressed themselves as in favor of the railroad men waiting a reasonable length of time, in the event of an injunction for the United States supreme court to take up the case.

HUNTER KILLED FOR DEER
ROXBURY, Me., Nov. 16.—Clarence Campbell of Worthley Mills, while hunting here yesterday forenoon with Charles Dane, was accidentally shot by Henry Marton of Mexico, Me., who mistook him for a deer.

The charge entered Campbell's side and he lived only five minutes. Dane and Marton hurriedly summoned aid, but to no avail. Dr. W. T. Rowe of Rumford, medical examiner, was called. The body was brought out of the woods this afternoon.

Mr. Campbell was 46 and leaves a wife and two young children.

O. M. I. SCHOLASTICATE DEDICATED TODAY

LOWELL PRIESTS AT DEDICATORY AND ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES IN WASHINGTON

The new O. M. I. scholasticate recently erected in Washington, D. C., was dedicated this morning and the event had a double significance, for it also marked the 10th anniversary of the founding of the Oblate order. The dedication ceremonies, which were held this forenoon, were attended by a large number of priests representing dioceses from all over the country, and among them were several local clergymen, including Very Rev. J. Wade Smith, O. M. I., provincial of the order and under whose direction the new building was erected; Rev. Lawrence P. Fitch, O. M. I., and others.

The double exercises were held at a solemn high mass celebrated in the scholasticate chapel at 10 o'clock by Rt. Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, D. D., pastor of the Catholic university of Washington. His Eminence Cardinal James Gibbons, D. D., presided over the exercises, while the sermon was given by Rt. Rev. Michael P. Fallon, O. M. I., D. D., of London, Ont.

The scholastics, who were formerly in Tewksbury removed to the new building last week. The old building in Tewksbury will be retained by the Oblate order, and will be used as a novitiate.

The blaze in the church was of mysterious origin and did damage estimated at $5000.

AUTOIST HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR DEATH

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 16.—Charles H. Whitney of Chicago, a freshman in the Sheffield Scientific school, Yale, whose automobile struck and killed Antonio Morena in Orange, early on the morning of Nov. 11, is held criminally responsible for Morena's death by Governor Eli M. Loomis, whose finding in the case was made public today. The opinion holds that Whitney was driving his car "in a careless, reckless and negligent manner."

MUSHROOMS SOAR
BERLIN, November. For no very plausible reason, except speculation mushrooms have soared in price to such a height that the authorities are being called on to step in, establish maximum prices, or take some similar measure to keep them within reach of the common people.

This season mushrooms are so plentiful that the price paid for the crop is a mere trifle. The authorities are being called on to step in, establish maximum prices, or take some similar measure to keep them within reach of the common people.

FIRE IN SPRINGFIELD CHURCH
SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 16.—Twenty church members were damaged by fire at a late hour last night. The blaze came as a shock to a series of alarms, some of them false, which kept the fire department on the pump all evening.

PRINCETON FOOTBALL TIGER READY TO CLAW YALE BULLDOG ON GRIDIRON

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 15.—Princeton and Yale are now ready to renew their annual battle on the gridiron. This year's clash will be held at the Palmer stadium here Nov. 18. Earlier in the season the Tiger eleven has displayed such brilliant football that the outcome is a toss-up. History tells us that, whether Yale or Princeton is weak, both teams seem to put up a great struggle when they clash on the gridiron. Harvard recently took Princeton into camp by a score of 3 to 0, and Brown took Yale into camp by a score of 21 to 6. According to Princeton experts, if the Tigers don't whip Yale this fall Nassau's sons will be astonished. The Tigers have practically the same team that was beaten at New Haven last year. Experience means a lot on the gridiron. So that the Yale are well off in this respect. Experts say if Princeton had Tibbott in the lineup against Harvard the result might have been different.

The Yale rush line, as well as the back line, has displayed an aggressiveness in the conflict with Princeton. Layton shows some of the Yale-Princeton stars. No. 1, Captain Black of Yale; 2, shows scene in Princeton-Harvard game last Saturday; 3, Baldrige of Yale; 4, Highly of Princeton; 5, Captain of Princeton; 6, Lathrop of Princeton; 7, Taft of Yale.

ATTACK BLACKLIST

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 16, via London.—The Cologne Gazette, commenting on the British reply to the American note regarding blacklists, says: "Everything remains as before. England is mistress of the sea and whoever wants to carry on commerce can do so only with her permission and under her supervision. Is not this navalism a thousand times more complete and more oppressive than anything German militarism—which really does not exist—is supposed to have done?"

The Gazette especially attacks Viscount Grey for mentioning submarine warfare as a justification for British predatory war. "We are treating vessels," it says, "exactly in accord with international law. Fact we sink them is solely the fault with England who has marked nearly everything as contraband. The American president to take strong measures against British encroachments but Grey appears to think that there is no reason to fear that Mr. Wilson will make use of counter measures."

COLDEST IN 11 YEARS

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—Old Man Winter warmed up, or, to be precise, froze up to his job yesterday, arriving in the city some hours with a low temperature that hasn't been matched in 11 years. Included in the disparagement yesterday was a sprinkling of snow. And in the forecasters' opinion this first icy touch is to be no ephemeral mat-

ENGLAND MAY GO ON FOOD TICKETS

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, in parliament yesterday outlined the government's proposal for dealing with the food problem.

Mr. Runciman's speech had significance aside from its actual content as showing that the government is looking forward to protracted hostilities and foresees the necessity of timely measures for insuring the national food supply by an effective organization of national resources in a manner similar to that adopted in the enemy countries.

Mr. Runciman announced the imminent appointment of a food controller with full powers over all departments concerned in food supplies, and immediate measures to restrict the luxurious use of sugar, to prevent waste and the making of large profits in potatoes and milk, and to forbid the milling of pure white flour.

He said also that the government would ask new powers under the defense of the realm act to deal with all attempts to exploit public necessities.

These measures, Mr. Runciman explained, would be temporary, but if they were found insufficient it might become necessary to have recourse to food tickets.

All Parties Welcome Plan

The speech of the president of the board of trade was welcomed in all parts of the house. Sir Edward Carson, on behalf of the opposition, and George J. Wardle, for the laborites, agreed that the house was ready to grant the power asked without the formality of a bill.

Mr. Runciman also announced that the government intends to bring about the pooling of engineering resources in order to expedite shipbuilding.

Mr. Runciman added that steps would be taken to control imported flour and that orders would be issued forthwith, calling for milk contracts in order to limit the price. Runciman admitted the time had arrived, when the government must regard the question of food supplies as a war problem, declaring that the strain the country would have to bear next year would be mainly in connection with the food supply.

To Prohibit Some Costly Foods

He saw no reason why at the end of this year the production of shipping for the preceding six months should not approach 500,000 tons. Announcing that he was making arrangements for a pooling of engineering effort on "type and elsewhere," Mr. Runciman said the government must "make the plunge" in this matter, for the provision of more merchant ships was most urgent.

He said the question of dispensing with some articles of food was under consideration and in this connection he mentioned elaborate and costly confectionery, concerning which a committee of the royal society had been advising the board of trade.

The retail prices of foodstuffs compared with a year ago have increased on an average of 27 per cent, says the report of the board of trade. They have increased 78 per cent, over prices before the war. The prices of sugar, eggs, fish and potatoes, however, are more than double the pre-war prices.

Of the total British tonnage of steam merchant shipping of 1900 tons and over at the beginning of the war, the net tonnage in 1915, was slightly over 25 per cent. Thomas J. McNamara, financial secretary of the British admiralty, told a questioner today in the house. This, he said, included losses from all sources, whether war or marine risks.

Lords Stirred by U-Boat Work

The submarine issue came up in the house of lords this afternoon. Baron Sydenham invited the government to make a declaration in the nature of a "ten for ten" policy in behalf of Great Britain and her allies. He declared there was an uneasy feeling that the submarine menace was more serious than the authorities were willing to admit.

Admiral Lord Beresford said Great Britain had arrived at a serious crisis, calling for energy and foresight, because the house of commons and the press had been ruffled by the most autocratic government since the time of Pharaoh.

"Had the blockade been properly enforced from the first," he asserted, "we should not have been faced by the submarine menace."

The Marquis of Crewe, lord president of the council, replied:

"It is useless to threaten to exact particular reparations in the terms of peace unless we are able to impose those terms by obtaining complete victory."

He said the difficulties in dealing with German submarine war on commerce had increased.

OFFER TO BAR TIPS

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—After careful and prolonged deliberation, the hotel and restaurant waiters of Boston have announced officially that they are willing to relinquish their time-honored and jealously guarded privilege of accepting tips from their patrons.

But they also announce that they will do this only if their employers will agree to raise their wages from $30 a month to $18 a week. This proposition was formally submitted yesterday to the Boston Hotel Men's association by John J. Kearney, head of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Local No. 34. The hotel men have taken the proposition under consideration.

WILSON THANKS WEST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—President Wilson expressed his gratitude to the people of the west for their support in the election in messages sent last night in reply to requests that he visit that section before congress opens. He said he would be unable to make the trip at present because of critical duties, but promised to go west later if possible.

EXAMPLES OF PAINTERS' ART IN LOWELL

Two beautiful and impressive examples of artistic and up-to-date painting and decorating that have recently been completed in Lowell are the interior of the Washington Savings institution, formerly the Traders bank, on Middlesex street, and the exterior of the Bon Marche building, on Merrimack street. Both examples are the work of Dwyer & Co., painters and decorators, on Appleton street, and they have been freely and favorably commented on by the public.

The first impression one gets entering the bank is one of brightness and light. This is largely due to the skillful selection and blending of colors as no sombre shades were used, excepting the warm mahogany tone of the woodwork which contrasts so well with the light walls and ceiling.

The panels in the ceiling are ivory white, outlined with the classic moldings in pure white. The Corinthian capitals of the supporting pillars are also delicately brought out in the pure white, and the large wall spaces are treated in grey buff. All of these tints are toned to the same subdued color note and they harmonize in creating an atmosphere of classic brightness in keeping with the character of the institution.

All the woodwork, including the new vestibule and the curved partition is treated in natural mahogany, its warm brown and red showing beautifully against the bright walls. At night, when the lights are on, the interior is so strikingly beautiful that many have stopped to admire it when passing.

Bon Marche Building

Another job of which the Dwyer company is particularly proud is the exterior of the Bon Marche building on Merrimack street which has set a new standard for the buildings in that locality. The Bon Marche has been finished in buff, of the Colonial shade, giving the effect of the substantial brick buildings that one sees in larger cities. This treatment has brought out the beautiful lines of the massive exterior, and there is artistic relief in the granite trim which completes the effect.

The broad band of decorative finish beneath the coping and above the windows of the top story has been given the granite finish and the same effect has been carried out in the sculptured medallions of lions' heads which are an attractive feature of the front. The present appearance of the Bon Marche adds considerably to the attractiveness of the street, and Mr. Dwyer says it was not by any means an easy task. Both examples referred to show the great possibilities of buildings that are brought up-to-date by the art of the progressive painter and decorator.

The average fare for each revenue-paying passenger was 1.842 cents, and including the transfer passengers the average fare was 1.263 cents.

The number of employees and others transported free was 7,040,563, the passengers cars of the company were operated a total of 31,028,304 miles, giving a revenue per mile of $0.135 cents. Freight, mail and express cars were operated 25,599 miles.

Adding this department's income to the operating income, it is found that the company's net operating revenue was $2,221,603.37, or $409,051.22 less than for the year ending June 30, 1915.

The company paid taxes as follows: On its property, $187,641.37; on its capital stock, $216,569.57; on its earnings, $222,309.29; and miscellaneous taxes, $2541.25, a total of $608,061.48, which was $44,319.09 less than for the previous year. The expenses of the company included maintenance of way and structures, $1,459,577.21, an increase of $29,508.14; maintenance of equipment, $915,647.94, an increase of $39,590.65; power, $985,025.15, an increase of $14,34.03; passenger conductors, motormen and others in charge of transportation, $2,257,050.91, an increase of $255,702.44; freight and express conductors, motormen, etc., $54,143.56, a decrease of $668.12; station employees, $112,272.80, an increase of $69,766.58; car house employees, $250,454.05, an increase of $29,656.15; parks, resorts and attractions cost, $7,423.28, a decrease of $1,100.20; salaries and expenses of general officers took $33,679.97, a decrease of $17,111.90; law expenses cost $55,966.15, which was $24,991.02 less than for the previous year, while injuries and damages cost the company $306,096.77, an increase of $7,820.75.

The company owns 92 miles of track, and operates 962.36 miles. The road and its equipment are listed as being worth $16,832,252.64, and other miscellaneous items bring the company's total assets to $47,324,072.17. FIGHT TAX ON ASTOR BABY

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Mrs. Madeleine Force Dick, who formerly was Mrs. John Jacob Astor, was appointed by the federal district court yesterday as guardian ad litem of her infant son, John Jacob Astor, for the purpose of prosecuting a suit to recover income taxes imposed by the collector of internal revenue.

According to Mrs. Dick, the Astor baby was forced to pay $2544 for the year 1915 on the income from the $2,000,000 trust fund left by the late Col. John Jacob Astor, a victim of the Titanic disaster. The income from the trust fund, it was said, amounted in 1915 to $111,600, but none of it was devoted to the support, maintenance or education of the Astor baby. Part of this income, it was alleged, came from corporations which themselves were subject to the income tax law.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 16.—The wages of between 3000 and 4000 office men and other salaried employees of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., here, were advanced about 12 per cent. today through the extension of the bonus system from the shops where it has been in force for a long time. By the terms of the extension, every employee will receive a bonus amounting to 3 per cent. of his salary each month, providing total excusable time absent and late during that period does not exceed six hours incurred on not more than three occasions. An additional four per cent. will be given every month to employees who have not lost any time through absence or tardiness.

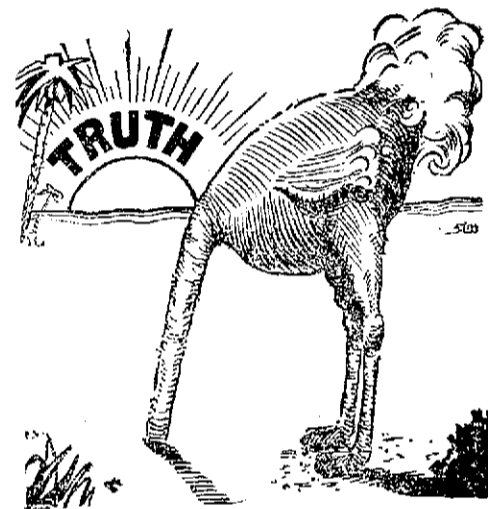

The system is made effective from Nov. 1, bringing a total of approximately 15,000 employees, official, clerical and mechanical under the plan. It was stated that other corporations were watching the innovation with a view to extending it to their plants.

HEAVY DAMAGE TO APPLE CROP BY COLD WAVE

HOOD RIVER, Ore., Nov. 16.—Based on reports from all apple districts of the northwest sales agency officials here today estimated the aggregate losses to the apple industry by the cold wave which has prevailed for nearly a week past at $1,500,000. The frost, it was said, had made unfit for shipment approximately 1,750,000 boxes of apples in the four states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. The loss in the Hood River district is placed at 10 to 15 per cent. of the total crop.

SATURDAY

The biggest and most important game on the Lowell high school football schedule will take place in the new Haven stadium with Havardville, Mich., as the opposing team, Saturday afternoon. The game is expected to be a close one, with both teams having a strong chance of winning. The Havardville team is led by Captain John R. Smith, and the Lowell team is led by Captain John R. Smith. The game is expected to be a close one, with both teams having a strong chance of winning.

The coming clash is attracting considerable interest not only in Lowell and Havardville, but all along the Merrimack valley. The Lowell team is strong and despite the fact that its captain and star half back is on the injured list, the remainder of the team possesses sufficient pluck and is ready to go into the game prepared to give the Havardville eleven a hard battle. Coach Conway is preparing for the game with great caution. In an endeavor to fill the loss sustained by Lister's absence, Arthur Lynch will undoubtedly be Lowell's star on the attack.

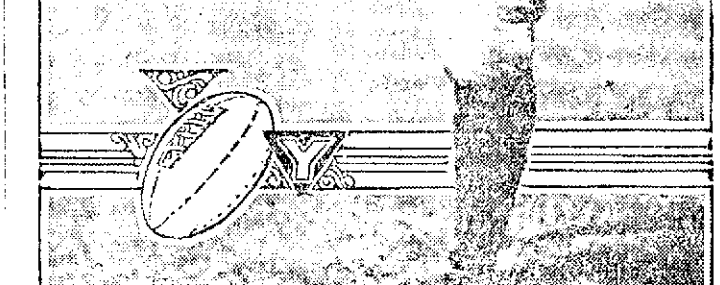

The Havardville team is expected to be slightly heavier than Lowell and therefore has this advantage. Lowell has opposed and defeated heavier teams than its own before this season, however, and the question of weight is not bothering the players much. The game is bound to be hard fought and a record breaking crowd will probably attend.

Havardville high is a likely contender for the championship of the state. It has not lost a game all season, but was forced to accept a tie from Manchester last week. The score was 12-12. The Manchester eleven was the same team that beat Lowell by a 7 to 0 score in a "lucky" touchdown in the first few minutes of play. Lister and Lynch were both out part of the game, but after the third play, the New

IN YALE LINEUP FOR PRINCETON GAME

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 16. Coach Jones has planned to send the Princeton varsity eleven through another scrimmage late today in preparation for the Yale football game on Saturday. Yesterday's hard drive in scrimmage put the men in a much improved condition both physically and in their knowledge of new variations in formations to be used in the contest against the New Haven team. The cold crisp weather today helped to put the men on their feet. All the injured players are rounding into condition rapidly and Coach Jones will have plenty of good men on hand to put into the game if the regulars become disabled. There is still some doubt whether Dave Tibbitts will get into the contest. He is practicing and kicking, but is not yet in condition to get into scrimmage.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 16. An impressive tribute to the memory of Thomas L. Shevlin, former Yale football captain and coach, who died last winter, was given by 2,000 Yale students at a mass meeting last night. At the mention of Shevlin's name by one of the speakers, the students rose in a body and gave the university cheer with nine "shevlins" at the end.

A year ago, Shevlin came to New Haven from the west, and developed what seemed to be a hopelessly broken team into one that won over Princeton.

Head Coach "Bud" Jones, principal speaker at the meeting, said the two greatest Yale captains, in his opinion, were Shevlin and Black, present leader of the eleven. Jones spoke optimistically of Yale's chances in the Princeton game next Saturday.

Evidently the impression of the Yale team gained by Larry Bankhart, Brown last Saturday, Harvard now thinks itself reasonably sure of another victory over the blue. However, it should reflect on what might have happened if Brown and not Princeton had faced the crimson Nov. 11. The impression exists in well informed football circles that Brown would have won a half Yale relaxed its vigilance, whipped Harvard. The game was just such a test in which a line runner like Pollard or Legere would have enjoyed a carnival.

On the eve of its two big tests Yale certainly is in a bad fix. It expected, perhaps, to have been favored to the lot of trouble from Brown, when defeat or a narrow margin of victory would have been a relief. But now, when the team is in a bad fix, it is expected to have been favored to the lot of trouble from Brown, when defeat or a narrow margin of victory would have been a relief.

TO SEEK EARLY DECISION BY SUPREME COURT ON 8 HOUR LAW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Early decision by the supreme court of one of the railroad suits attacking constitutionality of the eight hour law probably will be sought by the department of justice. An appeal probably will be made in the first case decided in the hope that the supreme court may be able to pass judgment as early as possible to Jan. 1, when the law will become effective if not suspended by injunction.

A decision in the highest court would be binding on all lower federal courts and might dispose of all other suits. The department's policy has not been finally settled, but it was said today that this course is being considered and probably would be followed. If an appeal is taken, the court will be asked to advance the case and in view of its importance, officials feel that such a motion would be granted.

No date for the acceptance of witnesses has been set, but the hearing will open Monday with testimony by state railway commissioners.

PUT PARIS GREEN IN HER HUSBAND'S SOUP

CHARGE AGAINST MRS. GELSONINI OF WAKEFIELD—MAN-UNDER DOCTOR'S CARE

WAKEFIELD, Nov. 16.—Charged with trying to kill her husband by putting paris green in his soup, Mrs. Pasquale Gelsonini, aged 42, of 7 Orahm st., was arrested yesterday afternoon. She will appear in the Malden district court today. The husband, Giuseppe Gelsonini, is recovering from the effects of the poison and is able to be about.

Love for another man is ascribed by the police as the cause of the alleged attempt. For two days the police had been waiting for the husband to recuperate sufficiently to swear out a warrant for his wife's arrest.

According to Gelsonini, his wife served soup for dinner Sunday. The soup tasted strange, he said, and when he looked closely at it he saw green specks floating on it. He stopped eating immediately and called a physician, who administered first aid treatment. He has since been under the doctor's care.

Gelsonini also told the police his wife had made three other attempts to get rid of him.

A week ago, he said, he awoke and smelled a strong odor of gas in his room. When he called his wife's attention to it she told him to shut up and go to sleep. Instead, he investigated and found a gas jet open, he said.

He also alleges that his wife put poison in macaroni she gave him to eat and also put ground glass in his beer.

JUDGE MAKES STAVING GOOD SUGGESTION

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 16.—If your skirt is very short, use a barrel.

This plan was suggested in the Central police court, and met with Justice Packard's approval.

The plan was suggested by the forewoman of a baking powder concern who was a witness. Two girl employees had complained that an employee of the concern made an improper remark to them, and the man was summoned to court. He appeared with several witnesses in his behalf.

In his testimony, the forewoman declared that when the girls leaned over to do their work their skirts went so high that she was compelled to put a barrel behind to obstruct the view. The justice approved of this and suggested that she go to the street and do the same kind act for others.

There was nothing in the testimony to bring criminal action against the man and he was discharged.

IRON BALLAST FROM DEUTSCHLAND TO BE CONVERTED INTO SOUVENIRS

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 16.—Iron ballast weighing 126 tons brought over on the German submarine merchantman Deutschland is to be converted into "Deutschland iron" to be sold as souvenirs for the benefit of German widows and orphans of the war, it was stated today.

The souvenirs will be a little smaller than an American silver dollar and they will bear impressions in relief showing the Deutschland, and Capt. Koenig's signature. It is said that some of the metal came from European battlefields.

The Deutschland has been repainted a dark battleship gray and is now considered ready to make a start at any minute on her return trip across the Atlantic.

Jeremiah K. Chandler of Tewksbury, representative elect of the 15th Middlesex district, tendered a complimentary banquet to his constituents in the dining room of the Richardson hotel last evening. There were present about 50 men from the district, most of whom are members of the republican committee in the towns of Tewksbury, Burlington, Billerica and Braintree. After the banquet there were short speeches by several of those present, who complimented Mr. Chandler on his victory in the recent election. The Honey Boy quartet entertained with a cabaret show which was very much enjoyed. Gray's orchestra also aided in the evening's program.

LOWELL MASS. THURSDAY NOVEMBER 16 1916

PRICE ONE CENT

WILL ATTEND EVENING SCHOOL

The Polish Citizen's club of Centralville has started a movement to encourage the Polish residents of Lowell to attend the local evening schools. The young men are particularly desirous to take up this evening study so that they will be able to become citizens.

In order to create as much interest as possible in this movement, a mass meeting will be held in the Polish club headquarters in Colburn street on the evening of December 3. An entertainment and concert will be presented in connection with the meeting and a large attendance is expected. Some of the officers of the club will speak on citizenship and the opportunities afforded in the evening schools. The benefits of the latter will be explained. Rev. Fr. Ogonowski of the Polish church in High street has co-operated with the club and is doing his best to interest his parishioners in the evening schools. He has urged his people to attend the evening schools and take advantage of their courses.

There are already two classes for Polish speaking people in this city. One is in the Greenhalgo school and the other in the Colburn school. Both classes are already largely attended but the principals have informed the officers of the Polish Citizens club that the classes will be enlarged or more added if an increase is shown in the attendance.

Another plan of the club is to prepare its prospective members for citizenship by conducting examinations in the club. There are at present about 150 registered voters in the club and 25 more who are waiting for their second papers.

The committee in charge of the mass meeting on December 3 is as follows: Stephen Kival, Jacob Pelczar and Joseph Andzejewski.

Big time, Associate hall, Friday.

THE MEXICAN-AMERICAN JOINT COMMISSION

INTEREST IN ATTITUDE OF LUIS CABRERA, CHAIRMAN OF MEXICAN BAND

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 16.—Interest in the session of the Mexican-American joint commission today was in learning what would be the attitude of Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican commission. During his absence at Philadelphia, Ignacio Bonillas and Alberto Pantoja, the two representatives virtually agreed with the American commission on the essential points of a plan of border control. They expressed confidence of the support of Mr. Cabrera notwithstanding the opposition offered by him on Tuesday, the last time he appeared in the conference.

Their optimism, however, was not shared by all those in touch with the conference early today. By a few of them it was regarded as not improbable that Mr. Cabrera might stand in the way of agreement again although all preparations have been made for reducing the plan to writing and Mr. Bonillas and Mr. Pantoja appeared confident another hitch would be avoided.

Mr. Cabrera remained non-committal.

WOMEN'S LABOR LAW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Constitutionality of the women's labor law of New York state was presented in a case before the supreme court today, particularly as to validity of a clause prohibiting employment of married women at night. The state court followed the federal court in its decision that it was once held unconstitutional by the New York court of appeals and later was sustained.

In the present case the Charles Schweitzer Press, a corporation, appeals from conviction of employing married women at night in its printing plant, attacking the law as a deprivation of liberty and property without due process of law.

The law provides that "no female shall be employed in any factory before 6 a. m. or after 9 p. m. or for more than 10 hours a day except to make a shorter day Saturday; or for more than 10 hours a week."

Per order.

FOOTBALL SONGS COMPOSED BY SCHOOL GIRL

Great interest is being demonstrated by the students of the Lowell high school over the big football game to be played with Haverhill high in Haverhill Saturday. Mass meetings at which the songs and cheers are rehearsed are held in the school hall daily and there is no limit to the enthusiasm of the cheering squads. Confident that the local boys will win from the fast downriver eleven the students are looking forward to Saturday's game with joyful anticipation.

Yesterday a rousing mass meeting was held, another followed the school session today and the final one before the Haverhill game will take place tomorrow and it promises to break all records for enthusiasm. It is expected that the largest number of Lowell high followers to ever leave the city with a team will journey to the Haverhill stadium Saturday.

The game will start at 2.30 o'clock. Special cars will leave Merrimack square at 12.10. Owing to the size of the new stadium the price of admission has this year been cut to 25 cents with students' tickets for sale at 15 cents. Faculty Manager Joseph G. Pyne is one of enthusiastic workers in conducting the mass meetings and he also is active in the arrangements for the practice games with the other classes.

Coach Conway was very much pleased with the result of yesterday's practice. Every man on the team, except Liston, was in fine condition. Liston, whose cheek bone was fractured about a week ago, has returned to school. This afternoon at Spaulding a scrimmage was held between the varsity team and an eleven comprised of Juniors.

The teachers at the high school are also interested in the work of the team and the students were asked to compose songs to be sung by the cheering squads Saturday. Two clever songs written by Miss Myrtle Rugg and one composed by the young women in the school office were selected and are being rehearsed daily.

One of Miss Rugg's songs is to the tune of "Swinging Through Georgia" and is as follows:

Football Song
Bring the dear old football boys,
And the way we'll kick that ball
Will not be very tame;
For we'll have you know the Lowell
Club school's out for fame.
And they can play a game of football.

CHORUS
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah for Lowell
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah for Lowell
We'll win this game, or know the reason why,
We're a highly trained crew, we'll show
Just how to play a game of football.

Second Song
The other is sung to the tune of "Trump! Trump! Trump!" as follows:
We're a jolly lot of lads,
And we'll soon be high school grads,
And we'll be in the game to have a lot
Of fun.
With Coach Conway for our guide,
Lunch and Liston on our side,
And we're going to make the other fellows run.

CHORUS
Kick! Kick! Kick! the dear old football
Never let it go astray;
We will show the other team
"Thinkers are not quite what they seem."
And we'll show them that they don't know how to play.

Third Spasm
The third song is to the tune of one of Billy Sunday's famous hymns. The words are as follows for Lowell high:
We're cheering our team to do or die,
Our ends are very speedy,
And our backs are very strong,
Get out and shout for Lowell high.

SEC. BAKER AT SPRINGFIELD

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 16.—The 17th annual meeting of the Consumers' League opened with a public banquet in the Hotel Kimball last night and addresses by Newton D. Baker, secretary of war and president of the National Consumers' League, and Dr. David L. Edsall, professor of medicine at Harvard university.

Mr. Baker warned his hearers when introduced that he came to Springfield on a peaceful mission, not in his official capacity as secretary of war, and that he did not intend to speak on warlike subjects. Mr. Baker's address was a general one on the growth of the Consumers' League and its accomplishments and was very brief.

Two hundred and fifty persons attended the banquet. Frederick J. Hillman was the toastmaster. Dr. Edsall talked on neuritis and its relation to various forms of labor.

"We have found," he said, "that the largest percentage of these sufferers of neuritis are piece workers, those who do the same thing over and over again as rapidly as possible and without any change from month to month and year to year."

PUBLICISTS MEET IN ASTOR MANSION TO DISCUSS "THE MELTING POT"

Mrs. Vincent Astor (No. 4 in the picture) gave her first entertainment of the season a large dinner at the Astor town house, 810 Fifth avenue, New York (picture No. 1), for the members of the immigration committee of the United States chamber of commerce, made up of well known men and women. It was the first time this house had been opened for a dinner of this kind, but it was not the first entertainment at which Mrs. Astor had been the hostess to aid in the work of the Americanization of immigrants. Her first large dinner was on Oct. 15, 1915, when she entertained at dinner at 122 East Seventy-eighth street and at which the scope of the work of the national Americanization committee was made plain.

One of its objects is the enactment of uniform laws in order to arrive at a uniform interpretation of citizenship in this country and to put the committee in touch with schools and colleges, newspapers and foreign newspapers, and to reach especially those immigrants whose work touches on national defenses, such as munition plants, mines, quarries and railroads. She also gave several luncheons last autumn for the committee, at one of which Colonel Roosevelt made an address.

Mr. Astor was unable, owing to another engagement, to be present at the dinner, and Mrs. Astor, who received the evening guests, had with her the woman who were in and out of the assistant hostesses at the various tables. These included Mrs. Edith M. Warburg, Mrs. George Cabot Ward, Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mrs. Julius Rosenberg of Chicago, Miss Frances A. Keller (No. 3 in the picture) and Miss Harriette Post.
